15 Burned to Death In Blazing Homes

12 CHILDREN AMONG DEAD IN TWO FIRES

Victims Trapped In Sleep as Flames Destroy Tennessee Tenement House.

SOME LEAP TO SAFETY

Mother, 6 Youngsters Perish as Farmhouse Catches Fire During Night.

A tenement house fire in Tennessee and a blazing farm house in Illinois today took the lives of 15 persons, 12 of them children.

The sleeping victims were trapped by flames discovered too latte for successful rescue efforts.

9 DEAD AT KNOXVILLE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (AP) — Firemen dug the bodies nine victims—seven of them children—from the ruins of a flame-razed tenement house early today.

A long search of the ruins failed to reveal any other victims in the old, two-story structure described by Fire Chief C. M. Johnson as a "fire trap."

The dead.

Mrs. McKinley Connatser, 35, and three of her children, Virginia, 6, Valee, 4, and Luther, 12.

Mrs. Cora Tate, 56, her son, Eugene Tate, 17, and her three grandsons, R. L. Melton, 12, Junior Melton, 6, and James Earl Melton, 9.

Fire swept the building shortly after midnight and trapped the victims as they slept. Twenty-two other occupants, most of them children, ran or jumped to safety.

Gordon Tate, 22, son of Mrs. Tate, said from a hospital bed that he escaped by jumping from a second-story window. He received only minor bruises.

"The others were to have followed me," he sobbed. "I jumped and thought they were coming but they didn't. They must have been trapped before they could get to the window."

The blaze apparently started on the second floor, possibly from a defective flue, firemen said.

McKinley Connatser, 34, husband and father of four victims, seized his five-months-old son, R. C. Connatser, and jumped from a second story window.

Girl Found Buried Under Porch; Confess Five Murders.

PARIS—(AP)—The body of 20-year-old Jean De Koven, Brooklyn dancer missing since last July, was found today buried under the porch of a St. Cloud villa to which police were directed by a 29-year-old German emigre.

The emigre, police said, confessed slaying her and four men because he needed money.

The body of Miss De Koven was found under water in two feet of hard clay. Diggers first found a white leather pocketbook, half open and from which protruded a fountain pen and pencil and some letters, all described as having belonged to the victim.

Fled From Germany.

The police said the confessed slayer was Eugene Weidmann who had come to France last March to escape German military service. He led investigators to the suburban villa outside Paris, saying that two of his men victims also were buried there.

Some of her jewelry and money were found in the house, according to police.

Weidmann, breaking down after hours of questioning, was quoted as telling police he kidnaped Miss De Koven July 23 and took her to the villa, strangling her to death there next day.

Among Weidmann's male victims, police said they learned, was a German Jew, Arthur Frommer, who one shared a prison cell in Germany with the killer.

Police said the motive in all five confessed killings was robbery.

The strange disappearance of Miss De Koven last July 23 created a major mystery which baffled French investigators for months. She was last seen alive walking out of the Studio hotel in the Rue Vieux Colombier where she lived with her aunt, Mrs. Ida Sackheim

FOUR FUGITIVES CAUGHT IN WEST

Quartet Who Fled Reformatory Face Auto Theft Charges In St. Louis.

The four Mansfield reformatory inmates who staged a successful getaway ten days ago have been captured by Missouri authorities and are being held in St. Louis on charges of automobile theft, it was learned here today.

Supt. Arthur L Glattke said St. Louis authorities had notified him that they plan to prosecute the quartet there.

The fugitives are Kenneth Haffa, 20; James Fisher, 19; Walter Campbell, 20; Roy Hall, 18. All were sentenced from Montgomery county.

Glattke said the four would be returned here to complete their sentence if they are not convicted in St. Louis, or on the expiration of their terms if they are. Detainers had been filed with the St. Louis authorities, he said, and should they fail to convict any of the four, they would be immediately returned to the institution.

The four fugitives were identified by fingerprints and photographs sent to police departments throughout the nation at the time of their escape, Glattke said. He did not receive any details as to how they were captured.

The four inmates escaped from the dormitory on Nov. 27. They smashed a window, scaled a fence surrounding the building and eluded guards who responded to the escape alarm a few minutes later.

Glattke said at the time that he suspected "outside help," had aided the fleeing quartet. He said he believed friends had waited in an automobile on route 13, near the reformatory.

Haffa was eligible for parole hearing this month and Fisher in January. The other two would have been eligible early next year.

Spain's Loyalists Beat Back Insurgent Infantry Drive.

Britain Rocked Year Ago Today By Abdication of King Edward

PARIS—(U.P.)—One year ago today a British king rocked his vast empire by making his "final and irrevocable decision" to renounce the throne for the love of an American woman.

Today, like any other "happily married man," he was house hunting in a restless but a maritally happy exile which he said the former Wallis Warfield Simpson would give him.

No Manhattanite facing October leases could be more preplexed than the Duke of Windsor seeking a place to live "at the side of a road" not too heavily travelled.

For an ex-king must keep out of the public eye as well as the mind and thus far the duke has been unsuccessful in his attempt to be a private citizen.

However, fit on the golf links, the Duke of Windsor is in sharp contrast to the worn and harrassed Edward VIII, who last Dec. 10 handed the British parliament the first letter of abdication it ever has received.

The following day, Dec. 11, the abdiction was made official when parliament approved the act. The ex-king went aboard a British warship and into an exile in which he is a much brighter and less nervous man.

The duchess who a year ago was waiting nervously at a villa in Cannes for the word that would pave the way to marriage, went shopping today. She is making new preparations for a trip to the United States, already once postponed.

Hollywood Comes to City To Help Stage Yule Show

'Gil' Baird, Director and Master of Ceremonies for 'Passing Parade' Flies Home to Work on Acts.

Hollywood came to Mansfield today to help stage the Community Christmas show, which makes its one and only appearance at the Ohio theater Dec. 18.

And that's no kidding. Actually, Hollywood flew to Mansfield, or at least most of the way.

It's like this: J. Gilbert Baird, sales promotion manager of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, has been in Hollywood for the past two weeks, directing the making of movie shorts for his company.

Before he left, he agreed to direct the revue sequences of "The Passing Parade of 1937." And the time's getting short. So Baird boarded a plane in Los Angeles Tuesday afternoon, landed in Cleveland less than 18 hours later and was in Mansfield a couple of hours later.

Tonight, Baird will direct his first rehearsal of his part of the show—and he's all hepped up over a new idea for a finale that he picked up at the Selznick studios in Hollywood just before he left.

Speeding eastward from Los Angeles to Cleveland in a little less than 18 hours, J Gilbert Baird, sales promotion manager for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, arrived in Mansfield last night to take over the reins of directing the revue sequences of "The Jury to Start Debate Today on Brady Gunman's Penalty.

HAMMOND, Ind.—(AP)—A federal jury selected to fix the punishment of James Dalhover, who pleaded guilty to murder in the slaying of State Policeman Paul V. Minneman, expected to start deliberations late today after hearing final pleas for the life and death of the "pint-sized" Brady gangster.

Closely-watched by federal and state officers, Dalhover took the stand yesterday to deny he fired shots at Minneman, slain near Royal Center, Ind., last May following the $2,668 robbery of a Goodland (Ind.) bank. He pleaded guilty to the slaying Nov. 15.

He testified he had a rifle, but insisted, "I didn't fire any shots."

He contended Al Brady, gang leader, fired several times with a machine gun and said Clarence Lee Shaffer, jr., fellow gunman, was armed with a rifle.

AUTOIST DIES IN CRASH; NO RELIEF FROM COLD SEEN

Mansfielder Found Dead In Car Near City; Near Zero Weather To Stay 36 Hours More, Forecasters Say; Coldest Dec. 9 In 10 Years.

Hourly Temperature Readings:

6 a. m.	4	10 a. m.	7
8 a. m.	5	11 a. m.	10
9 a. m.	6	12 noon	12

Hit by the coldest early December weather in 10 years, Mansfield and Richland county shivered today as the mercury dropped to four degrees above zero, one of the lowest official readings in the state.

The cold wave, which coated the area with four inches of snow, was blamed for the death of Enoch T. Calver, 37, in a traffic accident late yesterday near his home southeast of the city. Calver was killed when his automobile got out of control on a curve and crashed into a ditch. He was the county's 27th traffic victim of the year.

Little hope for relief from the bitter cold is in prospect for at least another 36 hours, according to the state weather bureau, which predicted continued cold tonight and Friday with possible snow flurries.

The cold wave spread suffering and death over every section of the nation east of the Rockies, with temperatures ranging as low as 26 below zero at Casper, Wyo. The lowest unofficial reading in Ohio was two below zero at Salem. At least 50 deaths were attributed to the cold and snow-covered roads in the nation.

Mansfielders watched the mercury drop from 34 degrees at noon to seven above at 7 p. m. and then to four above early today.

It was the coldest Dec. 9 since 1927 when the mercury went to two above zero, Otto Sprunger, official weather observer, reported. The average temperature for the first eight days of December this year is the lowest on record here, Sprunger said.

A life-long resident of the Mansfield community, Calver apparently was on his way home when his car skidded on the slippery road and went into the ditch. He lived two miles southeast of the city on the Oak street road.

Remove Eye From Man, 67, Transfer It To Youth, 20

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— The gratitude of an old man brought a present today to young Frank Chabina—an eye to supplant his own ruined by lime dust.

"Isn't that the swellest thing that ever happened to anybody?" asked the Albany, La., youth who will be 20 years old tomorrow, following the operation in Charity hospital.

John Amos, the 67-year-old donor, seemed happy about it, too.

They had met in the hospital ward and acquaintance ripened into friendship.

Chabina's left eye was sightless. Amos' eye, infected since removal of a cataract, was useless to him, but the cornea was unimpaired.

Cut of two impaired eyes the doctors thought they could restore the sight in Chabina's eye.

"If you figure one of my eyes can help Frank to see, I want you to take it and give it to him as a present," Amos said.

So they wheeled the two men into the operating room yesterday where doctors skillfully removed the perfectly good cornea of Amos' eye and put it in Chabina's left eye.

Doctors said they would not know for at least eight days whether the operation would enable Chabina to see.

24 Hours Left, City Must Act Or Face Delinquent Tax Suit

Unless city officials can make some arrangement within the next 24 hours to settle its delinquent tax account with the county, it faces the possibility of a suit for somewhere in the neighborhood of $10,000.

The county has a claim against the city for $4,965 in delinquent taxes—some of them ranging over a period of 17 years—on a plat of land, the property of the waterworks department and for cleaning of the Rocky Fork creek near the sewage disposal plant and the Roderick Lean ditch, near Park avenue east.

If the city can make arrangements to start payment either in full or on the installment plan by tomorrow, it can escape the suit. But tomorrow marks the expiration of the Wittemore act, which permits installment payment of delinquent taxes without interest.

Should the city fail to arrange for the payment, the interest will be added, and the city will then owe the county about $10,000.

Council was informed of the situation Tuesday night by Attorney Marshall Moore, special prosecutor's aide, in charge of collecting delinquent tax accounts. Moore has filed numerous suits against private property owners who are delinquent, and told council that the county's only recourse if the city failed to work out a plan for settlement would be a suit against the city.

It was indicated Tuesday night that council members and city officials would attempt to arrange

I Never Want to see Another Cathartic!

Here's a way to AVOID two tyrants—common constipation and cathartics, too!

Simply put back in your diet two of Nature's own laxatives that are lost by eating soft, "refined" foods: These NATURAL laxatives are the intestinal-tonic vitamin "B,"—and "bulk."

Kellogg's All-Bran is a good source of vitamin "B,"—to tone your intestinal tract and promote regular elimination. All-Bran has "bulk"—it absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination.

All-Bran is a crunchy, toasted cereal. Eat it with milk or cream and fruits. Delicious in muffins. But, however you eat it, use it REGULARLY—eat two tablespoons of All-Bran and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation—and cathartics, too! Every grocer sells All-Bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Syrians Take Their Rioting Seriously

Police clubs were busy here when rioting broke out after a group of dissidents clashed with authorities when their demonstration was broken up at Beirut, Syria, in front of the government palace. The recent decision of the Syrian government to abolish all political societies was indirect cause of the riot. Scores were injured. (Central Press)

Spain Honors the Reds

Citizens of Madrid are shown viewing a plaque which commemorates the re-naming of one of the Spanish capital's most important streets. The thoroughfare is now called "Soviet Union Avenue" in honor of the U. S. S. R., Loyalist Spain's ally in the civil war.

Science Brought Her Back from the Dead

A solicitous nurse hovers by as this English woman recovers from her miraculous escape from death. The woman (who requested her name be withheld) ceased to breathe during an operation in Croydon Hospital, London. Surgeons hastily made an incision and massaged her heart. Three pints of blood, found in her abdomen, were strained and pumped back into her arteries. A few minutes later she "returned to life."

Broke Troth, Wed 37 Years Later

There'll Be No More of This

None of this was evident as Freddie Rich, bandleader, and his wife, Eula, a Kentucky tobacco heiress, met in New York court. Eula, who is Freddie's third wife, asked a separation and $500 a month alimony.

New Ambassador?

Hugh Wilson

Resignation of William E Dodd from his post as ambassador to Germany, expected in January, would result in appointment of Hugh Wilson, above, former minister to Switzerland, as Nazi envoy, according to reports from Washington.

How the Spud Feud Started

Washington is in the throes of a potato controversy. It was started when nearly a half million pounds of Idaho potatoes were sent to the capital. Representatives White (standing) and Clark (left) of Idaho added insult to injury by inviting Representative Ralph O. Brewster (right) of Maine to partake of an Idaho spud feast. Brewster promptly ordered several thousand pounds of Maine potatoes rushed to Washington. So war is on.

MAP AIR POLICY

Aviation Leaders Take Steps For Planning Program.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Initial steps toward the development of a national policy on airports, coupled with a move to obtain government financial aid in construction and expansion of landing fields, have been taken at a conference of the various interests in the aviation industry.

Summoned by J. Monroe Johnson, assistant secretary of commerce, the conference adopted a series of resolutions calling among other things for long range planning of airports, and amendment of the air commerce act of 1926.

The air commerce act would be made to read that the bureau of air commerce could construct or expand air terminals, or lend financial aid to cities or states in such construction and expansion.

Girl's Graceful Dancer But She Can't Hear Music

DAVENPORT, Ia.—(UP)—Graceful Hilda Louise Ralfs, 19, is one of the best dancers in Davenport, although she virtually is unable to hear a note of music.

During a childhood illness, Miss Ralfs suffered almost complete loss of hearing. But that did not affect her cheerful disposition. She made the best of her situation and learned to read lips with such proficiency that now she has no difficulty understanding others if she can watch them as they talk.

Athletically inclined, the girl became a member of the northwest Davenport Turner society, where she has won several medals for excellent gymnastic performances.

Recently Miss Ralfs enrolled in dancing classes at Friendly House. Within six months she became so adept that she was made a member of a choral group in a recent review staged by the school.

The girl catches the rhythm of the music through vibrations.

Miss Ralf's teachers say she also shows unusual ability in her other classes, especially sewing.

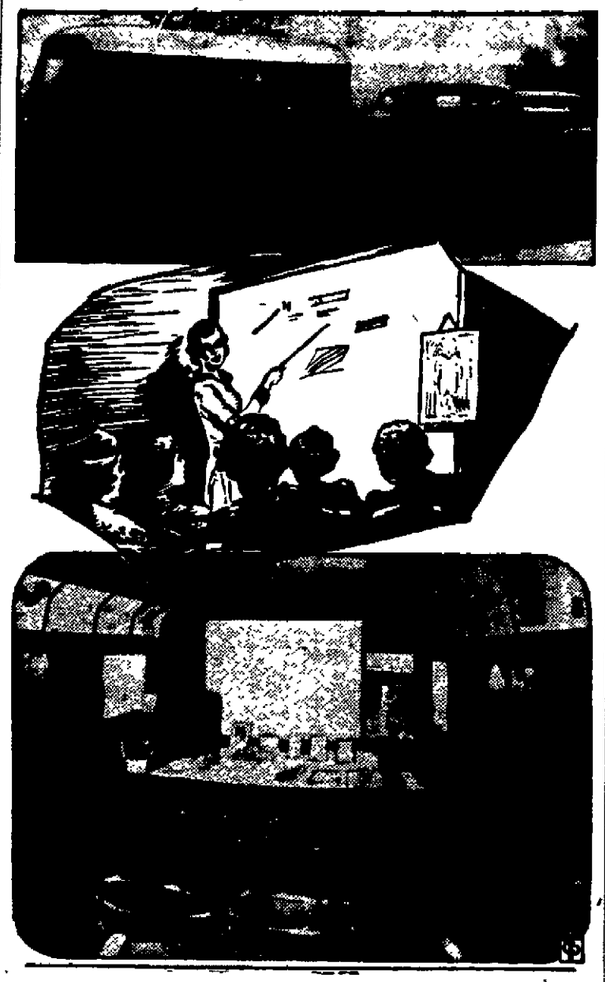
Trailer Keeps Death Rate Low



Wisconsin's maternity trailer ready for a trip into the northern rural areas of the state, where educational efforts are concentrated because of the higher maternal and infant death rates; below, a view of the interior.

MADISON, Wis.—Why Wisconsin has the lowest maternity death rate in the United States, and ranks sixth in the nation in infant mortality, may be explained by such health education efforts as the unique maternal and child health trailer which has just completed a succesful season under the auspices of the Wisconsin state board of health.

Cold weather recently drove indoors Wisconsin's traveling maternity school, which, with a trained nurse aboard, and equipped with health literature and exhibits, covered about half of Wisconsin's rural counties during a six-month season.

The trailer will travel again next year, bringing information on motherhood and child rearing to the remotest parts of the state, stopping at crossroads settlements and country schoolhouses with a message of medical science which would not have reached there otherwise.

Wsiconsin's maternal death rate today is 3.9 per 1,000 live births, compared with a United States average of 5.8. The infant mortality rate in the state is 47.9, compared with a national rate of 56.9 per 1,000 live births, according to Dr. Amy Louise Hunter of the Wisconsin board of health, originator of the trailer idea.

Book of the Week

YOUNG HENRY OF NAVARRE, by Heinrich Mann. (Translated from the German by Eric Sutton.) Knopf, New York. 585 pp., $3.

This new historical novel, penned by a well-known European author, should be included in the list of "must" books for the American readers.

The interesting tale is based upon the life of Henry of Navarre, who became king of France in 1589. That period was one of brilliant color and high drama in history—on the one hand the frightful massacre of St. Bartholomew's day, and on the other the pomp and ceremony of lavish courts presided over by men and women of unbridled passions.

Against this background the youthful Henry stood out as a man of noble character and great gifts, who elected a magnificent destiny. His object was to unify his people, to lead them from hatred to tolerance, from the economic distress to universal well-being.

It was a gigantic task, but Henry's character was fitted for it. He was known as a reckless warrior and a powerful political figure. He could lead his own violent private life—yet retain his modern social ideas. He could watch men die beside him and find cause to distrust even his own mother, yet retain his idealism. No circumstance was compelling enough to swerve him from his purpose.

The author, in exile from Germany since Hitler became dictator, has taken only the famous figure from history and breathed a new life into it. He has poured into this story of a great man in an age of chaos and strife a world of meaning for today.—C. M.

MEN—STEADY WORK

We will hire 5 men at once who live in Mansfield and vicinity, train them thoroughly in our factory branch at our expense, and employ them immediately in permanent positions, full time.

Married men preferred, as these positions are responsible and we require no investment or deposit—but you must be reputable and able to learn this work as taught. While learning, new men must be satisfied with earnings of $25 to $30 per week, but later can increase this substantially. Previous experience not important because our method is so unusual, but applicants must be willing to work hard and study to qualify for the higher incomes. SCHOOL STRIKE 3 MONTHS OLD

Parents of 52 Children In Protest of Lack of Bus Service In Hills.

COLLIER, W. Va. — (U.P.) — A parents' strike against sending 52 small children to a county school near isolated Collier approached its fourth month without the glimmer of a solution.

The parents are protesting refusal of the county school board, because of lack of funds, to provide rural bus service for their 52 children as is given other sections served by the school.

Without the bus service, the children have to walk either two and one-half miles each way to their studies, or take a short-cut through a burning, fuming coal mine "gob" pile.

The "gob" pile is considered one of the irritants that caused the strike. For years, it has burned on a hill overhanging Collier, sputtering, sending sulphurous smoke down upon the little community, and casting fitful lights upon the clouds at night.

The school board has suggested that the 52 children be sent through the "gob" pile short cut, but the mothers remember its dancing lights and baleful smoke.

"They tell us to send them down the 'path'," they say, "but the path is all covered up. They are always dumping new slate there, and there are big holes covered by a crust that might fall through; and besides, there is no trespassing, and a mine watchman chases the kids off."

MASONS SET FOR ANNUAL EVENT

Mystic Club Sponsors Open House On New Year Day Again.

Arrangements are being made by officers of the Mystic club for the annual open house observance on New Year Day at Masonic temple.

Open house at the temple on Jan. 1 is a custom which has been followed by the club for a number of years. On that day the building is thrown open to Masons and their guests, and is climaxed by an oyster dinner.

Officers of the club for 1938 who are making arrangements for the annual event are William H. Barr, president; Dean A. Eckert, vice president; W. G. Schwan, treasurer and A. F. Porter, secretary.

What's In Name? Plenty, Prof Says, If It's Good One

Contrary to the opinion expressed by Shakespeare in "Romeo and Juliet," there's a great deal in a name and a man's life can even be changed by his title, Dean William R. Westhafer of Wooster college told members of the Mansfield Schoolmasters' club last night at the First Methodist church.

Dean Westhafer, who spoke on "What's In a Name?" credited the use of catchy titles and slogans with the success of many of the popular advertised products, adding that "even a bad cigar can be sold if it is named for a president or a sports hero."

He criticized the modern fiction writers and newspapers for building too much romance around criminals in the public eye by attaching adventurous titles to them and making them appear less obnoxious.

"One of the most disturbing aspects of the modern era is the lack of accuracy in speech," Westhafer said. "We seem to have the idea that it is prudish to speak correctly and that it is necessary only to make ourselves understood. It is up to the schools and colleges to preserve the English language."

Westhafer's talk followed a dinner at the church.

Paul Winters, club president, was in charge of the meeting. A program arranged by R. R. Spetka included vocal numbers by LeMoine Derr, music supervisor at Hedges school, and instrumental selections by pupils from the same school.

The greatest distance traveled by a shrimp on the south Atlantic coast was 300 miles, the journey being made in three months. Tagging of shrimp by the bureau of fisheries made possible the calculation.

Full House Seen When Volunteers Feed Unemployed

Indications point to a full house Friday afternoon when the Volunteers of America give their annual dinner for the unemployed and homeless at their headquarters at 278 North Main street.

"We are prepared to serve them all and we don't think we'll be disappointed," Major William J. McNabb, in charge of the chapter, said. Last year 480 persons were served.

The menu Friday will include roast beef, mashed potatoes, peas, carrots, ice cream and pie. Serving will begin at 3 p. m.

The Volunteers feed the unemployed at 11 a. m. daily in a breadline at the chapter headquarters.

MEDFORD, Ore.— (INS) — "Kipp" is a Chesapeake Bay retriever who is a real retriever.

The dog "retrieved" Elwood Strader, truck driver, when he fell into Klamath lake during a duck hunting trip. Unable to swim, Strader was saved from drowning when Kipp swam near, allowing Strader to grasp his tail, and then towed him to shallow water.

HEARTH FLAME KEPT GLOWING FOR 147 YEARS

Carolina Mountaineer Last of Family Tending Unusual Fire In Cabin.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.—(U.P.)—In a tiny mountain cabin near here, alone except for his dog, Robert Morris, 77, faithfully tends a fire started by members of his family five generations ago and hopes that before his death arrangements will be made to keep alive forever the flame that has been burning for 147 years.

The aged mountaineer is the last of the Morris family, descendants of a brother of William Morris, who during the Revolutionary war gave all his wealth to the colonies and died in a pauper's prison. He has never married, and knows that when he dies there will be no son or other relative to take over the task of keeping the fire burning.

That task fell to him more than 20 years ago, when his mother died. Her death-bed exhortation was to "keep the fire going," and he has carried out the wish.

Pioneers In Smokies.

Ancestors of Morris were among the first white settlers of this Great Smoky mountain region. Matches were unknown and the building of a fire was a laborious process, accomplished only by rubbing two sticks together or by use of flint and steel. Once a fire was kindled it was carefully guarded and not allowed to go out.

As members of the Morris family married and established their own homes, they carried embers from the family hearth to start their own fires. Thus, when the parents of William Morris moved to their cabin in Holbert Cove, near Hendersonville, they carried embers from their parents' fire to the log hut where it now burns.

Necessity kept the fire burning for many years, and by the time modern habits — and matches — had been accepted in the mountains, the fire had become a tradition, to be carefully guarded.

The blaze burns in a granite fireplace in the little cabin. The fireplace bears the date 1879, but it was built especially for the fire long after the cabin itself was constructed. Banked carefully during the day while its aged guardian is tending his livestock and a few chickens, the blaze is allowed to flame up brightly at night.

Tall and spare, William Morris is a typical citizen of the mountain region where he has spent his entire life. His education was limited to about 10 months in a tiny nearby church, but among outsiders he is quiet and dignified. He speaks with a low, firm voice and appears reserved except with his mountain friends.

Where Plane Crashed Into House, Killed Baby

Firemen are pictured attempting to extricate the body of Capt. F. A. Avelino of the Mexican army, whose plane went out of control at Austin, Tex., and crashed through the walls of a home, killing two-year-old Leonard H. Albright and injuring his three-year-old brother. Before its crash, the plane glanced off a house next door. The Albright boy was the son of a University of Texas professor

Muscular Rheumatic Pains

It takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant" like good old Musterole—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly.

Better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster, Musterole has been used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

GIRLS TO FIGHT BACHELOR CLUB

Plan 'Council of War' to Break Down Indifference of Unmarried Men.

AUGUSVILLE, Manitoba—(U.P.)—Young women in this district laughed at a newly formed bachelor club today and planned a council of war to break down the indifference of unmarried young men.

Fourteen bachelors sat down to a sumptuous banquet recently—a banquet suitably chaperoned by a married woman—and bravely formed the new association.

Toasts were given at the banquet to the mothers, the ladies, the hostess-chaperon, and to "the king." Quinton Broadfoot was elected president, Charles Minshull, vice president, and William Chaytor, secretary-treasurer. Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett and Errick F. Willis, M.L.A., were named patrons.

The club's theme song is "A Bachelor Gay." Asked if this might be changed to "When the real thing comes along," one of the officials blushed and yelled "Never!"

Young women in the district expressed no alarm at formation of the club.

One giggled:

"We'll not be bested by this new threat to courtship. We've already planned a council of war."

DECLINE NOTED IN DESERTIONS

'French Leave' In Navy Shows Drop In 3 Years.

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Desertions from the navy have decreased in the past three years, it was revealed here today.

The annual report of Rear Admiral C. J. Rowcliff, judge advocate general of the navy, disclosed that a total of 172 enlisted men were tried by court martial for desertion in 1936. The number was 195 in 1935 and 284 in 1934, the report revealed.

Fifty-two cases of absence without, or over, leave accounted for the next largest number of courts martial last year. Seventeen men were tried for breaking arrest, 22 for drunkenness and 19 for theft.

4 NEW NOVELS TOP LIBRARY'S NEW BOOKLIST

All Deal With Modern French Characters; Gran Prix Winner In Group.

Four new novels, all dealing with modern French characters, head this week's large list of books available at the Mansfield Public library.

Leading the group is "The Diary of a Country Priest," by Georges Bernanos, translated by Pamela Morris. This volume tells the story of the adventures of a young priest in a small French town. The deep human appeal of this book won the Gran Prix from the Academie Francaise.

Another tale of France takes the form of notebooks filled with memories of adventures of the past and present. It is "Claude," by Genevieve Fauconnier, translated by Lauren Ford, which was awarded Le Prix Femina. The author is a married woman, the mother of a family, and throughout the novel the reader sees how she manages her household, tends to her children and solves the problems of her own destiny. The third story is "The Green Grape," by Simonne Batel.

Other New Fiction.

The balance of the new fiction novels includes volume six of Jules Romains' series, "Men of Goodwill," a story of Paris; "Wedding Night Murder," by Bush; "Star-Packers," by Nye, and "Shining River," by Sutherland.

Topping the list of non-fiction reading is "Madame Curie, A Biography," by Eve Curie, and translated by Vincent Sheean. The book presents the famous scientist in her triple role of wife, mother and genius. The author is the daughter of the French woman.

Others on the list are "Birds of America," by John James Audubon; "Sky Stroming Yankee; the Life of Glenn Curtiss," by Clara Studer. The last book traces the development of flying boats.

The remaining books on the list: "Your Child Faces War," by Crawford; "Forty Years of American Relations," by Dulles; "Stamp Collectors' Round Table" edited by Loso; "Familiar Flowers of Field and Garden" by Mathews; "Technique of Marketing Research" by American Marketing Society; "1938 Book of Small Houses" by Architectural Forum; "Christmas Plays" edited by Hampden; "From Anne to Victoria" by Dobree; "Yangtze Skipper" by Woodrooffe; "Ascent of Nanda Devi" by Tilman; "Leon Blum; Poet to Premier" by Stokes; "Facts to Know North Caroline" compiled by Mullen.

Stout also announced that the council would sponsor a school dance following the Mansfield-Erie East basketball game, Wednesday, Dec. 29, in the gymnasium at the school.

U. S. 1ST IN AIR, SAYS MAITLAND

Army Officer Says Nation Will Have More Planes Than Men In Six Months.

MEMPHIS — (U.P.) — Predicting that within six months the nation would have more fighting planes than pilots, Major Lester J. Maitland declared the Army Air Corps is superior to that of any other country.

"While we might be slightly less in number than the Russian and German contingents," Maitland said, "our force is the leader in latest equipment. Foreign nations are striving to equal us in speed."

Honor guest at an army engineers' luncheon, Maitland, one of the two fliers who made the first non-stop flight across the Pacific in 1927, said that by next July, three major bases would have 2,250 fighting planes. He said this increase would be "the result of a generous congress, a willing general staff and a persistent secretary of war."

The officer told the group there is a serious problem in finding young commissioned officers.

"Shortly, we'll have more planes than pilots," he said. "About 300 new pilots are commissioned yearly, which is too few."

Continuing, Maitland declared "our bombing is the best in the world."

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1937.

Lest there be confusion, it may be stated that a governor in a taxicab does not require a highway patrol escort.

Those happy looking people that you see around town these days are the ones whose Christmas shopping is almost finished.

That snow-covered automobile with a Florida license plate—regularly parked out West Fourth street—may be wondering how such things can be.

Belated Exoneration.

ANDREW W. MELLON, former secretary of the treasury, has been exonerated by the United States board of tax appeals, of the government's charge of income tax fraud.

Unfortunately this vindication of honor did not come until several months after Mr. Mellon's death.

The Mellon tax case, one of the most sensational controversies between the New Deal administration and its predecessors, may be regarded as typical of methods that have been employed by the income tax division of government during the past few years in stigmatizing the names of men of national prominence, but of opposing political views.

When the charge of tax fraud was brought against Mr. Mellon he branded the action as "political persecution" and a Pittsburgh grand jury refused to return a criminal fraud indictment against him, as a part of the government's prosecution.

It will be recalled, also, that former President Herbert Hoover was recently mentioned as among those to be subjected to income tax investigation, with the treasury department refusing confirmation or denial of the report.

While there can be no quarrel with an attitude of government that is insistent on everybody paying the full amount of income tax they legitimately owe, it must be contended that the practice of making sensational charges of tax evasion, which are afterward unsustained by evidence, tend to reflect seriously on the reputation of men who have devoted many years to establishing a record of honesty and integrity.

Many will join with Donald D. Shepard, executor of the Mellon estate, in saying: "We deeply regret that Mr. Mellon did not live to read the repudiation of the fraud charge."

And many will regret that this administration (which is known as "the government") acted in such a way as to cast a shadow on the final years of this notable man.

Closing Time of Liquor Places.

DESIRE of Mansfield night club operators and other liquor dealers to stay open until 2:30 a. m., instead of closing at an earlier hour, as now provided by city ordinance, can be readily understood.

Under regulations set up by the state board of liquor control, they paid extra for this privilege and, quite naturally, regard themselves as entitled to the additional profits they derive by keeping open 11½ hours longer each week.

It may be explained that the annual license fee of a night club is $1,000—this being known as a D-5 permit. By payment of an additional $400, however, the holder of a D-3 permit can secure a D-3a permit, entitling him to keep open during the same hours as D-5 permit holders, and also to furnish music and entertainment for patrons.

Under the present handling of the liquor business in Ohio, devised largely with a view to securing the greatest possible revenues, the state liquor control board has arrogated authority to establish 2:30 a. m. as the closing time of permit-holders who pay for this privilege. It should be understood that this is a matter of liquor board regulations, rather than being state law.

City ordinances fixing earlier closing time for liquor places have been upheld by courts as taking precedence over state board regulations.

Whether Mansfield is to proceed with enforcement of its present ordinance, which provides for midnight closing on Saturday and 1 a. m. closing on other nights of the week, will probably depend largely on expression of public sentiment to councilmen—who are now being asked to amend this ordinance to conform to regulations of the state liquor board in the matter of closing time.

To Restrict Taxi Speed.

MANSFIELD'S newly enacted ordinance, requiring all taxicabs to be equipped with governors limiting speed to a maximum of 45 miles an hour, is in accord with similar safety measures already operative in many cities.

Taxicabs class as public conveyances and it is incumbent on city government to prescribe regulations and restrictions intended to contribute to public safety.

Permitting governors which provide top speed of 45 miles an hour still leaves responsibility resting on taxi drivers to keep within the 35-mile limit allowed inside the city.

Co-operation of taxicab operating companies and their drivers, in keeping speed within the limits prescribed for various sections of the city, should be effective in accomplishing the intent of the new ordinance—greater safety for taxi passengers and the general public.

Flattering Comparison.

THE normal American male" as described by Dr. John Dollard of the Yale University Institute of Human Relations, is far from perfect, either in physical appearance and bearing or in character, habits and intellect. The doctor hasn't yet given a similarly searching picture of the "normal American female." It is our guess that this would not be any more flattering than his description of man.

Instead of feeling insulted, victims of the doctor's pronouncement should read through to his conclusion. Dr. Dollard emphasizes the point that he has listed the attributes of the normal, not the ideal, man. Many people, he says, who have a low opinion of their own abilities and attainments, reach it by comparing themselves with exceptional individuals or with some "excellent but non-existent ideal." If, instead, they would compare themselves with the "normal" or average individual, their self-respect and hope would rise at once.

Chicago may BE the Windy City, but Washington, D. C., runs a close second while Congress is in session.

"IF HE'D LISTEN TO REASON WE COULD GET GOING!"

Third Term Propaganda Fed Out of Washington

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—It is astonishing how much more talk there is in Washington of a third term for President Roosevelt than almost anywhere else in the country. Nearly every hint about the third-term idea originates in Washington, whether it be by a magazine article by some Washington newspaper man, a confidential letter or tipping service or whatnot.

Visitors from various parts of the country coming to Washington and visiting around among their politically minded friends at once become heralds bearing the word back to their homes. Almost invariably they tell their Washington friends that "nobody at home has even thought of such a thing," and profess astonishment that there is so much talk about it here.

All this would seem to indicate that somebody, for some reason, is feeding out the third-term talk. It bears all the familiar earmarks of propaganda. In fact there are those—mostly folks very much opposed to Roosevelt—who think they understand its purpose. Their view is that the more the third-term idea is talked about the less shocking it seems to be, and hence if the New Deal could keep the subject to the fore, without seeming to be responsible, much of the resistance would be worn down by the time the 1940 convention rolls around.

THERE may be a grain of truth in this, but there is other logic to explain the persistance of this talk, logic which is much easier to accept than a deliberate publicity maneuver. Also, it is very much simpler to criticise the President on this than to explain how he could stop it if he wanted to do so.

What could be say or do which would really convince any one that he was not going to run, assuming that he had made up his mind not to do so?

Even if every one were convinced that there was no doubt as to the sincerity of such a statement — an impossible assumption to start with—people would realize that no matter what he might think NOW a situation might arise which would result in his changing his mind.

Lots of people never believed President Coolidge when he said he "did not choose to run." Many think to this day he was very much disappointed that the nomination was not forced on him. The since published diary of Ike Hoover, White House head usher at the time, leaves no doubt that Ike thought Mr. Coolidge was not only disappointed but angry about it.

But aside from the futility of convincing any one, there is another aspect. The moment the political leaders became convinced that Roosevelt was not going to run, his influence would dwindle tremendously. Every Democratic leader would be laying his lines to be close to the new throne, if not to occupy it himself. Mr. Roosevelt, having enjoyed such amazing power for five years, would be very unhappy in his sudden impotency.

ALL this does not explain the amount of talk in Washington of a third term. Its answer lies deeper. It is based on the fact that a very strong group of Democrats, mostly Southern, are working definitely toward controlling the 1940 convention, writing a conservative platform and naming a conservative candidate.

Washington, watching this development with interest, has virtually reached the conclusion that this is the major battle-front, rather than anything involving the Republican party. And one of the strong possibilities is that this group of conservatives will be so strong by 1940 that the only way the New Deal can stop the hands of the clock from being turned backward, as it views the situation, is to nominate Roosevelt again. The theory here, of course, is that the conservatives might be able to beat any one else, but could not beat F. D. R. himself.

Listen, World!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

Find a "Worrying Rock" for Yourself.

JOAN is bringing her "worrying rock" to her new home. Joan and that eight-foot slab of stone have been friendly for a long time. Originally it lay outside her home in San Diego—was adopted as her private property and refuge when she was still a youngster.

Every woman, Joan believes, should have a "worrying rock"—some sort of private nook where she can "take her troubles and be alone with them." It's amazing how troubles will work themselves out under such conditions.

"I suppose I've sat on my particular rock for hundreds of hours. Most of my troubles are imaginary, anyway, and a half hour alone on the worrying rock always used to make things brighter. But a worrying rock must be used by just one person—otherwise it loses its meaning."

Which is tops advice for all of us. One of the most dangerous things about our modern civilization is our lack of solitude. Human beings, like their beast brothers, require periods of isolation. Our minds and nervous systems need solitude as much as our stomachs need gastric juice.

Solitude actually is a psychic gastric juice, which enables us to digest experience. Without it, we cannot assimilate life. We need it, not only to help us think, but also to help us STOP THINKING . . . to rest and relax and let the mysterious forces of the spirit have their way with us.

Look at the average neurotic mortal, with his nervous tension, his poorly controlled emotions, his secret toxic secretions of resentment and grief. What's wrong with him? He has mental and moral indigestion. He hasn't disposed of life as he went along . . . broken down its crude and violent mass of hate and fear into nourishing material which his spirit can use.

You're not happy around such a person. He depresses you—though you don't know why. But the answer is plain—he has spiritual halitosis. He exhales the poison of his own sickened soul . . . sickened because it has been deprived of its necessary periods of isolation.

We are not enough alone, we moderns. Something is always yanking at us . . . battering at our five senses. Sensation succeeds and overlaps sensation . . . we have no time to absorb one experience before another is upon us. The old expression—"I need to think things out"—is a deep psychological truth. We must think things out . . . smooth things out . . . break life into manageable material, or we are actually poisoned.

Solitude also serves another purpose. Constant sensation depletes us—uses up certain forces within us. We know very little, as yet, of the nature of those forces, but we have discovered by actual experiment that they can be used up, exactly as the batteries of a flashlight are exhausted, by constant action. And nothing save solitude can restore their strength.

A slang phrase expresses this fact exactly. "There's a live wire," we say, pointing to some magnetic person—feeling, in our own flesh, the sharp impact of his intensely charged personality. Such vitality is utterly unlike the false animation of the neurotic. It can only come from deep resources of rested power.

We all need "worrying rocks." I know the mother of a large family who insists on a half hour period by herself each day. This is difficult to do—she is poor, busy and hard-pressed. But she has arranged her life to meet this need. Her 'worrying rock" is only a spot she has walled off in the attic—a corner no one else ever enters. In this she has a couch, one lovely picture and—quietness. A quietness which no one is allowed to violate. And in that solitude, day after day, she is reborn.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL—

Impartiality Is Hard to Find.

PITY the one who would be impartial these days. Pity the interpreter of trends, the one who tries to look ahead, or who tries to state the case as it is today.

Newspaper writers, columnists are not the only ones. There are the observers on the side of labor and of business, on the side of New Deal and anti-New Deal who give the facts to the partisans. From what these observers say, they become outcasts if they state the exact facts.

The world has become violently partisan. Compromise means surrender, not merely of today's principles, but of the future. The mood is not sweet. There is no thought of working out the solution in calm reasoning. The impartial man has no friends. The impartial nation is treated with contempt.

IS IT FEAR?

It has been said by psychologists that men become intolerant because of fear.

Is it fear that each group has today, from the smallest employer and the smallest organized labor group to the largest divisions of nations, which brings forth these violent clashes?

A friend will dine with an observer or writer, give interesting news, and then of a sudden demand an expose of this or that. The writer requests facts, gets a smattering of them, then proceeds to study the matter through to its bitter end. And it is a bitter end—for not only is the friend lost (for the moment) but both sides will shout invectives if the report gives the actual facts. Invectives are the order of the day, taking the place of calm, contemplative thought.

(I must hasten to add that none of this has occurred to me—yet. But I have listened to many men tell their troubles, men on both sides of the fence.)

We are living through evolutionary times. On one side we have men who refuse to vision that fact; on the other hand, we have men who are seeking too easy a road. At least, that is the way we who talk it over see it.

MORE TOLERANCE?

One wishes that there were more catholicity in reading among the contesting sides.

If employers read labor papers and the "radical" magazines (which seem less violent than the "conservative" magazines), and if labor read the Wall Street Journal (whose writers interpret trends very broadly), the invectives would soften.

It is natural for Wall Street to take fright at even its shadow. It is natural for labor to mistrust "substitute" measures for "the freedom to work".

A TRUTH IN THIS?

Here is a Wall Street Journal item (of the afraid-of-its-shadow kind):

"It is an unorthodox market situation that confronts the investor today, the more dangerous because it has the appearance and form of most any other kind of market.

"It is a great risk to be in stocks and it is a great risk to be out of them because the radical inflation threat is overhanging always, even during periods when stock prices are falling and business is receding. In fact, the threat is even greater when the latter condition is prevailing. . . ."

Now, even though that article is "the afraid of its shadow" kind, it contains a fundamental truth that it may be well for us to heed. But it comes from Wall Street—!

Alas, alas.

And in a labor paper one reads columns of attacks on employers who are trying to undermine the National Labor Relations board. And these labor papers urge us to think of the chaos that would occur if there were no board. But that comes from the C. I. O.—!

Alas, alas.

And, alack, this today is no news column searching out facts. We ourselves may be accused of lying down in the trenches in contemplative mood when we should be dashing through fire and smoke to save Truth, gassed and dying. Except that truth doesn't die so easily. He's likely to walk up to our typewriter in the wee hours of the night and exclaim: "They'll never find me on the battlefield." In fact, I don't believe he ever has been found on the battlefield.

Would Control New Drugs.

More rigid federal control of sale of drug preparations is being urged. This follows the reports of 73 known deaths from the elixir sulfanilamide. The fatalities were attributed to the solvent not adequately tested before being marketed, a federal report says. The sulfanilamide itself is classed as safe and valuable. The try to prevent future destruction of the sort, the Food and Drug Administration is asking for a license control of new remedies to make certain thorough tests are made before they are sold. The public may well wonder why this has not been done long ago.—Toledo Blade.

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Hidden Purposes.

By HARLEY L. LUTZ
Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University.

The wage and hour control bill that was passed by the senate and reported upon favorably by the house committee on labor has been said to be a material improvement over the original, crudely-drawn Black-Connery bill. The administration wants the pending bill passed and it stands among the foremost objectives of the special session. It would appear that one way of getting an obnoxious measure through is to submit first so atrocious a draft that even a partial correction of the defects will cause the revision to seem tolerable.

History will repeat itself at the special session, if this bill does pass, for it will become law with no more serious or careful consideration than was given to much of the legislation written by presidential advisers and rubber-stamped by congress. Senate examination of the plan of federal wage and hour control was wholly inadequate, and the house committee gave the subject almost no thought, for its favorable report was made four days after the bill had been received from the senate.

The impossibility of accomplishing the result which is openly said to be the chief purpose, namely to raise all low wages and to shorten all work-weeks to 40 hours, is so evident as to warrant strong suspicion that the bill's real purpose must be something else.

That is, while it is possible for government to decree minimum wages and maximum hours, unless the courts interfere, it is not possible for the government to guarantee employment for all at that wage or under those maximum hours. There is no way of compelling employers to hire the same number of workers as before, or to prevent employers from using machinery instead of workers. Nor is there any way of compelling a business firm to continue in business after it has become unprofitable to do so. The most that can happen is that some persons may continue to find employment, but there is no assurance whatever that as many will be employed under the new regulation as at present.

Therefore, we are totally lacking in assurance that the bill will do the chief thing which it is being put forward to do. It is not unreasonable to suppose that many of those who are pushing it fully realize this, since they are persons with at least an ordinary grasp of affairs, and even the school children understand the difference between leading a horse to water and making him drink. The tragedy of the low-paid workers is that they stand in grave danger of being used as a cat's-paw, to rake out certain hot chestnuts.

In view of the futility of trying to put every one to work at a wage level fixed by decree, it is reasonable to speculate as to the real purpose of the bill. The plan will give government a new strangle hold on industry. It will subject every business concern in the country to the close supervision and regulation of a new federal agency. On the surface, only those who actually use child labor or who are not now complying with the proposed wage and hour provisions will be touched by it. But the new board will undoubtedly set up a universal inspection and police service, on the theory that any concern may sometime be a violator, if it is not one at present.

All of this means more reporting to Washington, more expense to maintain records and to fill out an endless series of forms and questionnaires, a higher cost of production and higher prices to all consumers, without doing much at all for those now getting low wages. It means another powerful tentacle of the governmental octopus securely wrapped around all business. This will certainly be one effect of the plan, and it may be the unemphasized, but real purpose of the plausible scheme to regulate wages and hours.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Shekel"—A Money Word!

"Shekel" is a $5 word—more and less!

Jocosely synonymous with "money," shekel is the Angelicization of the Hebrew shequel, which is rooted in shaquel, to weigh.

The shequel was both a weight and coin used by the ancient (Biblical) Jews and other contemporary Semitic nations or nations of the same stock.

The shequel was coined in three metals, gold, silver, and copper. The gold shequel weighed about 130 grains; the silver shequel, 224 grains, and the copper shequel, 450 grains.

The approximate values of the coins in merican money (before devaluation) would be, for the gold shequel, $5; for the silver shequel, 60 cents, and for the copper shequel, a cent and a half.

Making Hours Over New.

When everything goes wrong, try this.
A little joke or two;
A laugh has taken many an hour
And made it over new.

When everybody's out of sorts
And cross as cross can be,
Relate a funny tale at which
They must laugh merrily.

There's nothing like a little fun
To right things gone awry;
To straighten out unhappiness,
This simple method try.

McIntyre's New York Day by Day

WITH the possible exception of Paris, no city is more tolerant of high-jinking visitors than New York. This municipal affability was emphasized during the capering of the legionnaires last Fall. The boys fairly tore the town apart to see what made it tick.

Broadway is especially attuned to agreeable frolic, notably when the lights are on. Skylarking that would bring the Black Maria elsewhere does not even inspire a policeman's shush. On nights of the big football games the average citizen simply takes to the hills.

Even the sedate home-folks now and then have their moments. Only a few weeks ago in a fashionable dining place a prankish gentleman began to flip bread balls about. In no time everybody joined in. The climax came with a flying filet mignon landing skush on a white shirt front.

The subway rush hour is a test of the metropolitan magnificence in "taking it." These are nothing less than glorified football scrimmages with torn clothes and sometimes skinned shins and black eyes. But there's no anger. Everybody roars away grinning.

Mae Murray is a yesterday star who seems to have a strangle hold on eternal youth. At least 20 years ago she was first of the professional cafe dancers, presaging the coming of the Castles. Even then she was not a wonder kiddie, but a seasoned performer. Today she appears as youthful almost as ever. There is a spring to her walk and her figure is the envy of those who seek to be svelte. Nor has she lost her zest for visiting the cafes, theaters and night clubs.

Another girl of yesterday with form divine has managed physically to laugh at the years—I mean Annette Kellerman. She does not hesitate to admit she is deep in the 40's. She was glorifying the bathing beauty before Mack Sennett made it a career. Recently she has been promoting diving exhibitions in Florida. Miss Kellerman is an Australian and, like most aquatic marvels, learned to swim in her babyhood.

What is regarded as the smartest men's tailoring establishment in town is on the avenue in the 50's. Paneled in gray satinwood edged with black glass, it is run by four European born brothers who greet their select clientele in morning coat, striped trousers and with lapel flower. Trade is confined almost solely among the foreign diplomats in Washington and New York. There are evening clothes with trappings ranging as high as $500 which gives an idea.

A lapel flower is invariably associated in my mind with success. To date, I've never seen such an affectation by a failure. The buttonhole posy is the outward manifestation of the inward glow. Charles M. Schwab rarely leaves home for his office without one. Paul Whiteman would no more think of mounting the rostrum without his boutonnierre than without his baton. Somerset Maugham selects his morning flower from the florists as carefully as he does his entree in the restaurants at night. Now that Jack Dempsey has drawn the curtain on his biff-bang career, he is seldom without a red carnation, so the gesture is without sissiness. Among the lapel flowerists on Park avenue, Guernsey Curran is the most constant. On Broadway it is Arthur Levy, the press-agent. Thorley, the florist, used to be conspicuous because of his ever-present boutonnierre, which of course was something of an ad. But today a walk on the avenue any morning will reveal several to the block.

Reaction: I never leave a subway express train without an urge to repeat the line credited to Queen Victoria on one historic pilgrimage. Upon stepping from her coach at Charing Cross after her first train ride she cried: "Not so fast next time, Mr. Conductor!"

U. S. SPEEDING PROSECUTION OF ALUMINUM CASE

Anti-Trust Suit Spurred By 'Go-Ahead' Signal From Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The department of justice is speeding plans for prosecution of the Aluminum Company of America case—the government's most spectacular trust busting case since former Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis fined the Standard Oil company $29,500,000.

Given a "go ahead" signal by the supreme court, justice officials revealed that they are prepared to subpoena "hundreds of witnesses" and proceed at once. The court upheld the government's right to prosecute the company, once controlled by the late Andrew W. Mellon, in the southern district of the New York federal court.

The next move will come from Senior District Judge John C. Knox, who must set a trial date.

Department of justice officials regarded the supreme court's decision as an outstanding victory.

"If we can't win this case, we might just as well quit," one official said.

In its suit, the government contends that the Aluminum company has a 100 per cent monopoly in manufacture in the United States, 90 per cent in aluminum sheet, 95 per cent in aluminum alloy, and virtually 100 per cent in extruded and structural shapes products, wire, cable, bars and tubing.

It seeks to dissolve the company and rearrange its properties under "independent" companies.

DISMANTLE SPAN 150 [illegible] OLD

[illegible] Bridge to [illegible] of Henry Ford's collection.

WAYNESBURG, Pa. — (AP) — Workmen have started dismantling 150-year old Ackley's bridge which connects Washington and Greene counties.

The wooden span, constructed of hand-hewn oak timbers, was purchased from the state recently by Mrs. Lucille Evans and donated to Henry Ford for his historic collection at Dearborn, Mich.

The bridge is near the home of William Holmes McGuffey, famous educator, whose boyhood home was reconstructed at Dearborn.

The greatest percentage increase in the population of the United States occurred between 1800 and 1810 when there was a gain of 36.4 per cent.

P. T. A. Joins In Move To Bolster Sales Tax Funds

Nearly 6,500 pupils in Mansfield public schools acted as messengers for the Mansfield Council of Parents and Teachers yesterday in the council's drive to bolster the schools' finances.

The pupils took home letters which urged their parents to demand sales tax stamps when making purchases and called on them to ask their state senator and representative to support the deficiency appropriation bill now before the legislature.

The letter contains excerpts from a statement issued by the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers association which places the blame for the break-down of the schools foundation program with the failure to enforce the sales tax law.

"Vendors are not buying their usual supply of stamps, knowing the proper enforcement is not taking place," the letter said. "The consumer is paying the tax, but the state is not receiving it. One hundred and ninety-six examiners were furloughed Nov. 6, and since that time the schools have lost approximately $300,000."

FRENCH CREWS ASSAIL 'TIMID' PIRATE POLICY

Maritime Unions Threaten to Strike Unless Assured Full Protection.

PARIS —(AP)— French sailors and maritime workers, who have complained constantly during the last six months about piracy on the seas and lack of security for themselves, have petitioned the government once more for effective defense against attacks such as that which blew the British Jean Weems out of the water off Catalonia.

Seaman became sceptical about the Nyon agrement system of protection when double attacks sank one French freighter, the Oued Mellah and an Air French dispatch boat stationed at Minorca, within the space of 10 hours. Whereas before French seamen were content to ask the government to provide radio control and to be firm with the aggressors, today they call for similar preparations as these provided during the World war.

Base Attack Demanded.

In the seaman's paper "Journal de la Marine Marchande," one writer stated immediately after the attacks: "The Nyon accord was a step in the right direction but it is too timid. It admits the right only to attack the individual airplane or submarine which has carried out the attack. It does nothing about the organization which ordered the attack. I ask that aerial patrols chase pirate planes, shoot them down if possible, but if not follow them to their base. Once such bases are identified they should be destroyed to the last shred, to the last man.

"It doesn't suffice in attempting to halt Mediterranean piracy to kill the aviator who is under orders. It is necessary to strike the organization at its heart. To those who say this would mean war, I ask what country, Spanish or foreign, would thus admit its complicity before the entire world?"

The national federation of maritime trade unions suggests that the merchant marine be armed at once "so that they could effectively defend themselves as they did during th World war." It informed the government in a special communique that it must answer at once before the French seamen if it seriouly intended to protect them from attack.

The note terminated: "We say squarely that our comrades have had enough, exposed every day to the barbaric acts of pirates known or unknown, and will manifest our feeling shortly by refusing to take any ships to sea, unless some action is taken to protect ships sailing in the danger zones. This is the last warning we will give. The next time we will take action ourselves."

Movie of the Month: 'Hurricane' Tops List, Says Coons

As Hollywood correspondent of the AP Feature Service and The News-Journal, Robbin Coons herewith names, with reasons for his choice, the Movie Of The Month.

By ROBBIN COONS
AP Feature Service Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Twenty minutes of sound and fury entitle "The Hurricane" to a place among the important movies of film history and make it an obvious choice for this month's No. 1 production from Hollywood.

Until the fictional storm of Novelist Nordhoff and Hall is realized on the screen, "The Hurricane" is a fairly routine treatment of reliable cinema stuff that can be catalogued in the Island Idyll bracket. It is done with photographic beauty, generally good acting, and all the customary trappings of this type of film. Innocent, happy, carefree natives cavort in sarongs and leis, eat mammoth banquets from nature's abundant hands, and swim and run and dance as a colorful background for the story of the native youth Terangi and his bride Marama.

The tale of Terangi, who loved freedom enough to accumulate a total of 16 years' jail sentence through repeated attempts to escape, has its quota of excitement, pathos and alventure, especially in the escape sequences. But the real money's worth in the picture is that 20 minutes of wind, rain,

HURRICANE'S HURRICANE
Made With Wind Machines, Wave Rollers, Water Chutes

and tumultuous water which constitutes the screen's most realistic and terrifying depiction of the elements to date.

Wonder at Survivors.

Unless too ecstatic reports on this technical achievement lead you to expect too much, you'll find the Goldwyn version of a hurricane a thrilling and devastating experience which may leave you limp in your seat. It makes the very praise worthy typhoon of "Ebb Tide," another current film storm, seem like a good stiff breeze.

Aided by the furious moaning whine of the sound track, by the wild tempestuous music, and by a little imagination, you can share in the terror of the human beings who are washed and blown away with their pitiful houses by the "wind that overturns the world," and then you can marvel that there are survivors—Terangi and Marama among them.

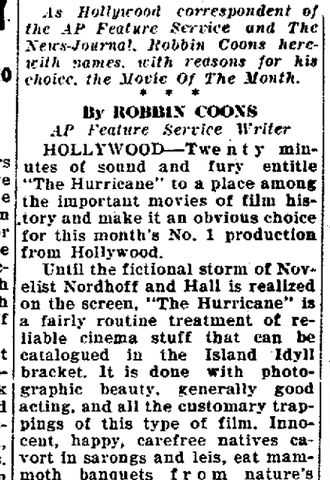
Hall Shows Promise.

The hurricane itself, engineered by James Basevi, the technical genius who did the earthquake sequence of "San Francisco," is so overwhelming that individual performances, even those of Raymond Massey as the duty-obsessed governor and Thomas Mitchell as convivial Dr. Kersaint, do not stand out as they might in a less realistic film.

Jon Hall as Terangi exhibits promise, a handsome physique, and prowess as a swimmer and diver. His effectiveness in the prison sequences indicates a possible future as actor as well as athlete. Dorothy Lamour makes a beauteous heroine, and C. Aubrey Smith brings ruggedness to the priest's role. Mary Astor is sympathetic as the governor's wife, a role not over-taxing her talents.

John Ford directed with his customary vigor, although his hand is not so apparent as in most of his films. That he brought 'em back alive—his actors and all who were subjected to Basevi's artificial storm—is not the least of his achievements here.

Also recommended: "Nothing Sacred," "True Confession," "Navy Blue and Gold," "A Damsel in Distress," "Second Honeymoon."



CAROLE LOMBARD

THEATER

HUGH Herbert tells the story of the Hollywood star who submitted a guest list to all those invited to a party. . . . "If you don't like any of these people," the invitation read, "you can stay home."— Nobody came. . . Dolores Del Rio's real name is Asunsolo. . . At an opera in Hollywood recently, John Boles was in the company of a distinguished looking foreigner whom he introduced as a count. . . . The man met a number of Hollywood's elite and was tendered several invitations to filmland social events. . . . Boles is still laughing up his sleeve . . . for the count was none other than a bootblack.

"Hold 'Em Navy."

A romantic triangle featuring Lew Ayres, Mary Carlisle and John Howard, all kinds of horseplay and humor around the Naval academy and football sequences are all found in "Hold 'Em Navy," opening at the Madison theater Friday. Ayres enters the academy and incurs the enmity of an upperclassman by falling in love with his girl. Ayres' rival wins the football post in the second year, but the night before the Army game Howard stays out too late. The balance of the film deals with Ayres shouldering the blame and how Howard pays him back. Claire Trevor in "Big Town Girl," plays through today.

"This Way Please."

The musical comedy, "This Way Please," with Mary Livingston, Jack Benny's Mary, making her film debut, is the current attraction at the Ohio. Also in the large cast are Buddy Rogers, Betty Grable, Ned Sparks and Fibber McGee and Molly. The picture concerns the troubles of a picture theater manager who has on his hands Rogers, a band leader, Ned Sparks, an enterprising press agent whose loony ideas for romance and publicity provide plenty of manager headaches, and Miss Livingston as the head usherette who is out to marry the press agent.

All-American Sweetheart.

Trim college racing shells, streaking along a smooth water course, campus romance, lilting music and specialty dancers, all combine to make up the features of "All American Sweetheart," opening at the Majestic theater Friday for two days. The film is the first to glorify the supple-bodied crew men of the United States universities and colleges, who each year point for the national championships at Poughkeepsie. Scott Colton and Patricia Farr head the cast. The second feature will be Jack Randall in "Riders of the Dawn." Claude Rains in "They Won't Forget," and "Some Blondes are Dangerous," closes at the theater today.

"The Duke Comes Back."

Allan Lane in "The Duke Comes Back," with Heather Angel and Genevieve Tobin, comes to the Ritz theater Friday. The story deals with the duke's life after he renounces the ring to marry a socialite who disapproves of his fighting activities. He keeps his promise for five years but circumstances arise that force him to again return to the ring. With that announcement his wife and little son leave him and his life is threatened by gangsters. "Riders of the Rockies," a western completes the twin-bill attraction. An added attraction will be the opening chapter of "Wild West Days," a western serial starring Johnny Mack Brown.

Silent 50 Years

Ever since his girl left him at the altar for another man—50 years ago—William "Silent Bill" Perry of Audobon, Ia., hasn't uttered a word. And he will remain silent utnil his girl comes back. DEFIES WINTER

LIBERTY, Ore —(UP)—A clump of iris in the corner of Mrs. C. W. Stacey's garden does not realize it is now in Oregon instead of Beirut, Syria. It's springtime in Syria now and the plant has started to grow despite the fact that winter has arrived in Oregon

BOY UNEARTHS GOLD OF DIXIE CAMEL CORPS

Spanish Pieces of Eight Were Buried Secretly During Civil War.

NEW ORLEANS — (U.P.) — In a sandy field 60 miles northeast of here, the grandson of a Confederate overland blockade runner has plowed to light the fate of Louisiana's legendary gold camel caravan.

Lawrence Holmes was plowing in his father's field near Robert, La., when sunlight glinted on several strange looking coins. They were Spanish Pieces of Eight.

He showed them to his father, Robert Holmes, who recalled the camel caravan.

"My father," the elder Holmes said, "was an overland Confederate blockade runner who led the camel train through this section to avoid capture by the Federals blockading the Mississippi river.

"On their backs were bags of old gold pieces and bullion that had been obtained somehow in Texas. The money supposedly was being taken to the headquarters of Jefferson Davis, Confederate president, in Alabama."

Drank Too Much

But the "ships of the desert" were unused to the great amount of water in Louisiana's bayous and small rivers. They drank themselves to death and died near the Holmes farm. The bullion on their backs was secretly buried.

The coins found by young Holmes are believed the first discovered of this buried treasure. They date back to 1798. Several bear the imprint of Charles IV of Spain, king during the last days of Spain's domination in Louisiana more than 150 years ago.

Records in New Orleans Howard Memorial library substantiate the story of camels used by the Confederacy.

They had been introduced into the United States in 1855 by Jefferson Davis when he was secretary of war. At his request Congress passed a bill appropriating $30,000 for their importation. Seventy-five were landed at Indianola, Tex.

They were used by the army in the semi-arid regions of West Texas and the desert country of New Mexico and Southern California. Faster for long journeys than horses and more durable, the camels proved successful on army exploration and surveying trips. But the teamsters resented this humped competition for their horses and mules.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Illinois Group Offers Bounty For Barnyard Enemy.

FREEPORT, Ill. — (U.P.) — A move aiming to exterminate foxes in northwestern Illinois has been launched by the Stephenson county board of supervisors. The board proposes that five counties pay bounties of $2.50 a head on foxes, which supervisors say have caused poultry farmers serious loss in recent year.

DRAFT PROJECT

WPA Engineers Plan $5,500 Program For Shelby.

A $5,510 codification and records projects for Shelby, similiar to the program, now being conducted in Mansfield, had been drafted by WPA engineers today, and was ready to be forwarded to WPA headquarters in Washington for allowance of federal grants.

The program, designed as a six-months project, is divided into codification of city ordinances, indexes on sanitary and storm sewers, water lines, street lighting, power and service lines, and a house numbering survey.

The project is set up so that the sponsor, which is the city, will provide $550, and the WPA will furnish $4,960 to meet the costs of labor, Glenn Weller, WPA engineer said.

Mayor D. B. Young will supervise the project.

WINS PLEA FOR COMPENSATION

Ex-Taxi Employe Awarded Right to Participate in State Fund.

A jury in common pleas court yesterday awarded Fred G. Howarth, Mansfield, the right to participate in industrial compensation for injuries suffered in June, 1934, while in the employ of the Service Taxi company of Mansfield.

George Reichert, manager of the taxi company, was made defendant in the suit by Howarth who contended that Reichert was not paying into the state compensation fund at the time of the accident, in compliance with a state law.

Howarth said his claim for compensation payments, filed with the industrial commission after he received a leg injury, was denied on the ground that his disability was not due to the accident. He was injured when a refrigerator he was helping to carry up a stairway fell on his leg.

COMBINES TOIL WITH ECONOMY

'Star Farmer' Gives Recipe For His Success.

SALUDA, Va.—(U.P.)—Robert Lee Bristow, "Star Farmer of America" at 21, has only one recipe for success—hard work and economy.

The youthful Middlesex county farmer, who won the star title over 7,000 other contestants, was confronted several years ago with the problem of supporting a sister and brother, and keeping the homestead.

When his parents died in 1935, young Bristow faced a $2,500 mortgage on the farm, with the bank threatening foreclosure. His only ready resources were a few chickens and pigs.

O. S. U. EXPERT LAUNCHES CITY SCHOOL SURVEY

Step First In Miller's Five-Year Plan For Adequate Building Facilities.

A survey of the public school building picture in Mansfield, the first step in Supt. W. L. Miller's five-year adequate building plan, was under way today in charge of Dr. T. C. Holy of the bureau of educational research at Ohio State university.

The survey, for which the board of education recently allowed $1,500, is expected to show the weak spots in the city's school building facilities and afford a basis for drafting a building program, Miller said.

Check Enrollment.

Housing facilities and enrollments at the city's schools will be checked to determine where rooms are crowded and as a preliminary to the possible re-districting of the city for school attendance.

The survey work is expected to require at least two months, and Dr. Holy has promised to have a complete report of the survey along with recommendations in the hands of the board of education by next May 1.

Dr. Holy will be assisted in the work by Dr. E. B. Sessions of Ohio State university, and possibly one or two more assistants. Headquarters during the survey period will be at the office of Supt. Miller in the Richland Trust building.

County's No. 1 Dog Tag Buyer Keeps His Record

Peter Miller, 259 South Diamond street, the county's No. 1 dog tag purchaser, kept his record intact yesterday by being the first at the county auditor's office when the annual tag sale opened. Miller has bought the first tag for several years, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said.

The tag sale will continue until Jan. 20, after which a $1 penalty will be added to every tag sold. Tags for female dogs are $3 and for males and spayed females, $1.

Thirty-six tags had been sold today, and Wolfe urged dog owners to obtain licenses this month to avoid the customary rush a few days before the penalty goes on. Last year 6,218 tags were sold in the county.

Davey Flays Critics Blaming Him for Job Law Delay

SENATOR TOLD REMARKS ARE 'FALSEHOODS'

Boosted Passage of Insurance Law, Governor Says; Boyd Answers Blast.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey lashed out today at critics who accused him of delaying enactment of the state unemployment insurance law, thus necessitating changes to permit benefits payment next year.

At the same time the governor reiterated belief that his plan to begin the payments Jan. 1, instead of one year later, would receive federal and state approval, adding that he expected to have emergency machinery for registering, checking and certifying persons eligible for such funds, in operation by the first of the year.

Assails Senator.

Davey vigorously assailed Sen. William M. Boyd (D-Cuyahoga), chairman of the senate committee on commerce and industry, saying:

"Instead of making an effort to block the legislation, I made an earnest effort to get it through.

"Mr. Boyd is guilty of a deliberate falsehood. There is probably no member of the state senate who is a more unscrupulous demagogue.

"Perhaps if he had been wined and dined just prior to making his malicious misstatement by the lobbyist to whom he owes his allegiance and from whom he takes orders, he might have been in better spirits."

To which Boyd replied:

"In the typical Davey manner he attempted to sidetrack the main issue by making a personal attack. Every member of the house labor committee will verify my statement that the administration made every attempt to hold the unemployment insurance bill in the committee.

"Having failed in this, they tried to have it switched to the finance committee through their control of the reference committee. It was only after they were exposed, that they finally were compelled to submit to the majority decision of the house and support the bill.

Plans Set-Up.

Davey said he would call upon the various state departments for skilled employes to set up the machinery for handling the unemployment benefits. As soon as the plan receives the anticipated aproval by the Federal Social Security board, the governor said he exected to havet he situation so well in hand that payments could be begun almost at once.

The state probably will have to bear the expense of setting up the machinery because the workers would havt no official status to amke them eligible for federal payment, Davey said.

The governor returned yesterday from Washington where he conferred with the Social Security board.

Color Short To Feature Majestic Matinee Program

Mansfield school children — as well as adults—will have the opportunity Saturday morning to see the thrilling Technicolor movie short, "Give Me Liberty," which won the Academy award this year for being the best movie short of the year.

It will be offered by the Majestic theater at the can matinee for the Muster-Cheer Christmas baskets. The film, over which school heads of the nation and women clubs were enthusiastic, was shown at the Ohio theater several months ago. It is the story, in color, of Patrick Henry's immortal speech, "give me liberty or give me death."

The picture is one of three features on the Majestic program; the big feature will be Billy Mauch and Henry Watson in "Penrod and Sam" and there will be a cartoon, "He Was Her Man."

The Ritz theater, which also has a can matinee at the same time, has a program of five subjects—Frankie Darro in "Valley of Wanted Men," "Nuri, The Elephant," the story of a child bride and her small husband in India; and three cartoon comedies including "Ali Babi."

Both shows will start at 9:30 a. m., the price of admission a large can of fruit or vegetables, which will be used in the Christmas baskets.

Up and Down THE STREET

Paul W. Wilhelm of Shelby apparently is a faithful follower of the football fortunes of Johns Hopkins college. Although Hopkins completed its season several weeks ago, Wilhelm is anxious to find out the correct score of its last game, with St. Johns. He said that the radio announced the score 13 to 0 with St. Johns winning. According to one of the papers the next day, Hopkins won, 13 to 0, and another said the game ended in a 13-13 tie. The correct score, Mr. Wilhelm, was Johns-Hopkins 13, St. Johns 0.

The 2,000-mile trip across the continent, high above the snow drifts, was comfortable and enjoyable, but the 75-mile ride by auto from Cleveland to Mansfield was dangerous, cold, uncomfortable and generally irritating, according to the two Westinghouse men who returned last night from ten days in Hollywood. J. Gilbert Baird, sales promotion manager, and Paul Wilmore, of the merchandise advertising department, flew from Los Angeles to Cleveland in less than 18 hours, were snug and warm and had a swell view of the moonlit skies, to hear them tell it; but the auto ride from the Cleveland airport was something to gripe about. Of course the sudden change of temperature from sunkissed Los Angeles to snow-swept Ohio may have had something to do with it.

The weatherman is going to play a mean trick on Sheriff E. P. Long when he steps from a train in Mansfield at 4:30 p. m. today. The sheriff, who is scheduled to arrive from California where he went after a prisoner, will be going from one extreme to the other so far as the weather is concerned. California is one of the few states which escaped the bitter cold that made Mansfield one of the coldest spots in Ohio today. Long, who made the trip west by rail, returned by way of Arizona and Texas which helped to prolong the balmy weather.

POSTAL RECEIPT GAIN REPORTED

Mansfield Office Is $27,013 Ahead of '36 for First 11 Months of Year.

Better business during 1937 in Mansfield and other Ohio cities was reflected today in increased postal receipts.

In Mansfield an increase of $27,013.32 for the first 11 months of this year over the same period in 1936, was reported today by Postmaster Herman E. Homberer.

For the period ending Nov. 31, total receipts at the Mansfield postoffice were $281,206.85, Homberger, said, as against receipts for the same period last year of $254,193.53.

These receipts are the highest ever recorded by the postoffice at any time, Homberger said. Receipts have been increasing here every year since 1930, and at the rate they are going now should far exceed the total receipts for 1936 which amounted to $286,833.09, he said.

During the month of December 1936, the postoffice experienced its largest single month of business in its history, but that record is expected to be topped this year.

At Dayton, where industry has been humming almost steadily, the greatest increase in the state, in comparison with its size, has been shown. Cleveland, four times as large as Dayton, had the highest increase, but its margin over the western Ohio city was only $59,763.

Postal receipts long have been regarded as a business barometer. House or state department.

JURY QUIZZES PAROLED INMATE WHO KILLED OHIO POLICEMAN

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A special grand jury's investigation of alleged scandal in Ohio's parole system led it today to a prisoner whose parole is being protested by officials of the city where he killed a policeman.

The jury questioned the prisoner, Louis C. Vandervort, about another case a few days ago, but developments are expected to shift the inquiry's searchlight to his own situation.

Prosecutor George Schilling of Clinton county (Wilmington), where Vandervort shot to death Patrolman Emery McCreight in an attempted hardware store burglary in 1922, appealed to the state parole board to rescind or postpone the parole and asked Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy to investigate the prisoner's parole.

Vandervort, for whose crime Roy Mack McKinney was convicted by mistake and served nearly a year in prison, was paroled last year, effective Dec. 20, this year.

Prosecutor Marcus Shoup of Greene county said he considered reopening the unsolved slaying of Patrolman Elvas Matthews of Xenia, of which Vandervort once was suspected but which he denied.

Records of the parole board show that several prominent persons appealed to the board in Vandervort's behalf.

C. C. Crabbe, Columbus attorney and former attorney general of Ohio, is credited by informed persons with being largely responsible for the parole.

Others who sought the convict's release, according to board records, are Andrew J. Durbin, Kenton political leader, and R. J. Moorman, vice president and cashier of the Farmers and Traders bank in Jamestown, Greene county, Vandervort's home town.

Investigators for the board reported Vandervort's prison record was excellent. He is now at the London prison farm.

U. S. GIVES O. K. ON $5,000,000 RIVER PROJECT

Flood Walls at Wellsville, Ironton and Cincinnati to Be Built Under Plan.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Ohio valley had the "go ahead" signal from the federal government today for a $5,000,000 program to stem the flood-tides of the Ohio river.

An appropriation of $24,877,000 was approved by President Roosevelt for five states along the lower river valley in a program to prevent the recurrence of the record January flood of 1937.

A total of $5,000,000 was allotted from relief and war department funds for expenditure during the year ending June 30 and the remainder must come from new appropriations.

The appropriation included $845,100 for Ohio projects at Ironton, Wellsville and Cincinnati. Protective flood walls and dikes have been outlined by the cities and await the final plans of army engineers in Washington.

Maps Start of Work.

"I expect to start construction as soon as plans are completed, the rights-of-way obtained and the weather becomes suitable," said Lieut. Col. D. O. Elliott, U. S. district engineer here.

Col. Elliott said drafts of the Ohio projects would be forwarded in a few days by Col. William A. Snow of the army engineers in Washington, who announced the president's action.

Rights-of-way for a flood wall running 2,200 feet have been obtained by Wellsville under a proposal of Pittsburgh army engineers who conducted a survey along the route. Test holes were bored along the proposed flood wall sites for a study of subsoil conditions, engineers reported.

The program calls for an earthworks 70 feet wide at the base and 14 feet high to hold back a crest of 54 feet. The river reached a 51.05 stage last year.

At downriver Ironton, engineers laid plans for a 10-mile flood wall, three miles along the Ohio and the remainder to hold back turbulent Storms creek. The proposed wall would protect the city to a stage three feet higher than the crest of last year's flood.

Cincinnati's principal project was for the protection of the city's waterworks, built along the Ohio. The city's water supply was cut off last January when the flood reached an all-time crest of 79.99 feet. Preliminary plans call for a wal laround the plant to meet an 85-foot crest.

The Great Game of Politics

—By FRANK R. KENT

On "Bellyaching."

THE "don't irritate him or he may pull the pillars of the temple down" idea was brought into the open Tuesday night by Joseph P. Kennedy, "the miracle man," who, in a speech before the Economic club in New York, fiercely chided those who disagreed with the president for saying so. He is, Mr. Kennedy unnecessarily asserted, "there for three more years anyhow," and it "isn't going to get you anywhere to bellyache" or to say that "Roosevelt is no good."

IT IS interesting to have this advice openly instead of indirectly sponsored by a "close administration adviser" and to be able to discuss it as a concrete proposal instead of a camouflaged one. It makes it possible to ask Kennedy what in the name of common sense has come over him and who it is that is "bellyaching" anyhow. Is it he or is he just echoing the president? Can he take it or can't he? And has he thought over the absurdity of the implication that unless business men and others who think the president wrong, his policies unsound and his performances inadequate and inconsistent, bottle up their thoughts and feelings, fall in behind Mr. Roosevelt with soft, buttery words and admit that he is right and they wrong—that unless they do that the worst may happen?

DOES MR. KENNEDY think it necessary in order to avert national disaster for people whose convictions are revolted by the president's program to swallow the two vicious measures he is now pressing through congress? Does he really believe that if all his opponents cease to oppose and begin to praise the president he will do the sound things essential to meet the situation, but if they continue to "bellyache" why, then, he won't, and that's all about it? This is not only ridiculous on its face, but it certainly makes Mr. Roosevelt out a pretty poor specimen of a man. If they were sure Kennedy is right—or if they felt he was in position to guarantee performance—it is certain that at least 99 per cent of the business and journalistic critics of Mr. Roosevelt would not hesitate a minute to put on the livery of hypocrisy and laud him to the skies. If it will pull us out of a depression, restore the national solvency and recover governmental sanity there are few of those opposed to Mr. Roosevelt who would not be willing to go forth at high noon on the public highway and proclaim their belief that he is the greatest president, the most inspired leader and the wisest man who ever sat in the White House; that all his acts are good and he never made a mistake in his life.

IF THAT IS the way to solve the grave problems that now threaten the nation, only the most stupid and bitter would be unwilling to pay the price. But, there are two reasons for not accepting that idea as sound. One is because it is hard to assume that Mr. Roosevelt is quite as small and vindictive a man as Mr. Kennedy seems to imply. The other is because if he is that kind of man there is no reliance to be placed in him at all and to yes, yes him would only make conditions worse. A far better thing for Mr. Kennedy to suggest is for Mr. Roosevelt's opponents to support him wholeheartedly in every effort he makes to do the things they believe right but continue to oppose him as strongly as they know how when he goes in the directions they believe dangerous and acts upon the counsel of other "close friends" who sometimes are more potent with the president than Mr. Kennedy.

IT IS FINE to have Mr. Kennedy in Washington. His influence has been good, but his advice is bad. He can call opposition "bellyaching" if he likes, but if a lot of people hadn't bellyached in this country, we would today have a packed supreme court and a government reorganized in such a way as to make opposing the president not only futile but unhealthy for the opponents. If it were not for the "bellyachers" there would be today no check at all on federal spending, no sentiment against complete regimentation, nothing to retard our headlong plunge into inflation and ruin. Moreover, Mr. Kennedy knows it. He says that he was an "enthusiast for the New Deal" and still is, implying, of course, that he has been for all the major New Deal policies. This will be real news to some of his friends, who were under the impression that there were times when Mr. Kennedy felt that certain New Deal policies were very bad, and "bellyached" about them very loudly indeed. Of course, men may change their minds, but there is reason to believe that Mr. Kennedy did not think of the full implications of his remarks and that they illustrate once more the unwisdom of a public man making spontaneous speeches.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There is more in a name than meets the eye, else Raymond Scott has wasted a lot of time thinking about it.

That quintet of his which provides so much of the swing in today's movies, is really a sextet, but to Scott it's a quintet—simply because he likes the sound of the word better. Officially, too, it's "Raymond Scott and His Quintet," which justifies the sixth man.

Scott insists he is a sound fanatic, in words as in music. This is evidenced not only in his weird and haunting syncopations, but in his choice of titles for his compositions. Witness: "Swing, Swing, Dear Mother-In-Law," "Blue, Blue, Blue, Blue, Blue," "Dinner Music for a Pack of Hungry Cannibals," "War Dance for Wooden Indians," and "The Mad Waffle Eater"—this last a little number the boys play for their own amusement.

Harry Warnow chose the name "Raymond Scott" purely at random. He opened the New York telephone director and chose for professional use the first name his pointing finger struck. Harry Warnow itself was not a displeasing name, but Harry has a brother Mark who is himself a well known orchestra leader. Recently Mark, curious, telephoned the directory's Raymond Scott and reported to Harry that the original also practices music for a living.

Hollywood's Raymond Scott studied electrical engineering in Brooklyn Technical high school, later explored music at the Institute of Musical Art in New York City. He wrote songs at the Columbia broadcasting studios for six years—about 200 numbers—before he organized the quintet.

When the boys rehearse, they also make records. Afterward, they play the records to see how the "new twists" and improvisations sound. Some they keep, others they discard. In a single day they may record 25 to 30 pieces, destroying the waxes immediately.

The quality of the little band's swing is further attested by the fact that it sent studios scrambling with contracts as soon as it was heard at the Trocadero. This is amazing when you consider the group has been organized little more than a year.

Scott himself plays the piano, which means that he is least photographed of the bunch. The other boys can meander around through a musical number, but Scott has not yet learned how to pick up his piano and walk. If he had a regular orchestra, he could lead it and thus achieve lens prominence—but in a six-man band there's no need for a posing leader. He seems to bear up well under the poor visibility.

Crickets, however, currently are making his artistic life difficult. He is working on a musical description of "Winter over Hollywood." He reveled in the "rustic tempo of Hollywood" at first—vowed he would accomplish things he postponed when living the more hectic New York existence. He rented a house in the hills, looked forward to quiet evenings composing—and met the crickets.

"Millions of 'em!" he exclaims. "I don't mind street cars, screech of brakes or stripping of automobile gears, but crickets...!"

Parents Don't Permit Dating

By VIRGINIA LEE

I HAVE sympathized many times in this column with young people who are not allowed to have the normal good times their friends enjoy, or to entertain their friends in their homes.

I recently said that I do not have the parents' side of the picture presented to me very often, and I would like to hear from parents. I would like them to tell me what it is they fear if they give their children a certain amount of freedom.

However, I do know in part. I know that many young girls in their 'teens who are given the privilege of dating and going out, are perfectly unreasonable. They think if they are allowed to go to a dance with a boy, for instance, that they should be allowed to stay out all night, practically.

They want to go out every night, and they are so emotional that the chances are they will fall in love and insist upon marrying when they are far too young to even know what they are doing.

"DEAR MISS LEE: I am not allowed to date. I can't say that I want to a lot, but I think I would like an occasional date. I am seventeen and a half years old. I have a stepfather, and I don't know which of my folk is responsible for my not going out. Of course, I don't stay at home all the time. My folk will take me to dances, but they won't let me go with my crowd.

"The only reason I can think of for them not letting me date is that my sister ran off and got married when my mother remarried. I graduated last year from school and am now working. I don't want to leave home, I also am not boy crazy, but now if a girl doesn't date once in a while she is left out of things. I just want to know if I expect too much or what. I tried to state both sides.

"UNDECIDED GIRL."

There you have the answer, Undecided Girl. Your sister was permitted to have dates and she ran off and married too young. Of course there was then a situation at home which she felt she couldn't face—the taking in of a new member of the household. But, just the samo, she let her emotions run away with her, so your mother, not being a discriminating person does not realize that her daughter now at home—meaning you, my dear—would not do such a thing. That you are happy at home and don't want to leave until Mr. Right Man comes along and steals your young affections.

You are old enough to accept an occasional date and to go out if you do not overdo the matter. I'd work on your mother persistently, if I were you, until she can be brought to see the reasonableness of your request. Maybe your stepfather could help you there.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

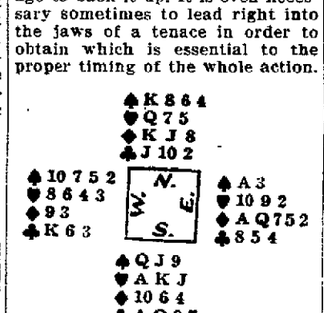
"The Authority on Authorities"

FORESIGHT PLUS NERVE

GETTING the jump on your opponents with a lead of your suit, which must get set up in order to beat the contract, may require plenty of foresight and the courage to back it up. It is even necessary sometimes to lead right into the jaws of a tenace in order to obtain which is essential to the proper timing of the whole action.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

Against South's 3-No Trumps contract, West led the spade 2, which East won with the A. An immediate return of spades at this point gives South his contract. A heart to the Q enables declarer to take a club finesse, which, even though it fails, gives South three club tricks, one diamond, three hearts and three spades.

The East defender in this instance, however, did not give up so easily. He reasoned that, if his partner was able to get into the lead again to put him in with a diamond, it was up to him to give up one trick in the suit first with the hope that his partner would still have one to lead him, to enable him to cash his remaining four tricks.

With this in mind, he deliverately led up to dummy's K-J-8 and from that point on the hand was hopeless for South, as the club K was in the wrong spot. When the club finesse was tried and lost, West returned his diamond and East cashed his four good diamonds.

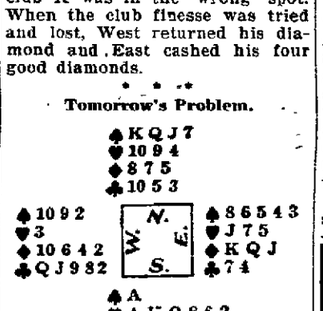
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What should North respond to South's 2-Hearts bid and how can South make 6-Hearts?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

DICKY'S QUERY staggered me for a second. I knew that I had counted no cost in my determination to keep Philip Veritzen from a possible telephone conversation with his son, which would inevitably result, as Dicky had pointed out, in the ordering of Noel back to New Hampshire at once, leaving his temporarily wrecked car behind.

But until Dicky pointed out the probability, almost the certainty, that the great producer would not be halted in his determination to get his son back immediately by anything so trivial to him as a car wreck, I had not realized the possible consequences of balking the theatrical magnate's plans.

But there is a stubborn streak in me which feeds on opposition, or so Dicky often avers. In answer to his query, I squared my shoulders and spoke firmly.

"I can't help it if he stops the rehearsals of my play again, and, as a consequence, robs Mary of her chance to play the leading role, I'm not going to let him rob Noel and Mary of this extra day together. I—I have a sort of superstition about it. They must have it."

Dicky Offers Advice.

My husband put his hands on my shoulders and held me away from him, looking down into my eyes with an oddly intent look.

"Look here, old Dear," he said. "You ought to know, if you don't, that if I followed my own selfish inclinations, I'd tell you to kick old Phil Veritzen through the highest cocked hat to be found, and to hell with the play! You can always write another one—and if you never do, fame isn't all it's cracked up to be. But that doesn't mean that I'm anything else except mighty proud of my gifted wife, and I sure don't want you to do anything rash.

"As for Mary," he went on after a second's hesitation, "I don't believe this particular crises would mean so much to her in the long run, for you know we've all agreed that old Phil is cooking up a nasty letdown for her."

"Yes, I know," I said, with difficulty keeping back a rush of words which would tell him my plan for saving Mary's career and discomfiting her august father-in-law. It was so chimerical a plan that I did not want my critical husband to know of it unless I was able to bring it to successful fruition.

"But," I added with decision, "things might as well come to a showdown with Philip Veritzen first as last. If he is going to hold a Damoclean sword over our heads constantly, he might as well have the opportunity to fulfill his threat without waiting any longer. But I have a queer intuition that he won't do anything drastic."

"Let us hope and pray!" Dicky said devoutly "But, Lady, one thing is understood. This is your funeral. When the old hyena gets on the telephone, don't you dare to be out of call. Nobody else is going to take that job away from you. He is going to hear nobody's voice except your dulcet one."

"He isn't, if I can manage it," I said with a vindictive tightening of my lips. Dicky laughingly covered my mouth with his hand.

"That's too beautiful a mouth to be screwed up like that," he said. "Come on out and give your old man a game or two of tennis. Your nerves need loosening after all this Machiavellian plotting."

"There's nothing I'd like better," I said with sincerity, and the "game or two" extended into several hard-fought sets, for with Dicky giving me a handicap of 30 points a game, I win as often as he does.

Thoroughly tired, but with rested nerves, we showered and dressed for dinner. Dicky in white linen, while I donned a simple summery blue chiffon to do honor to our guests.

It was almost dark when they returned, and though I had ordered the dinner to be served a full hour later than usual, counting on their probable tardiness, Katie was almost in hysterics over the prospect of a spoiled dinner by the time they arrived. They were in summery clothing, and I forbade them to change, a prohibition for which I fancy they were grateful, for they declared themseves ravenously hungry.

I had cautioned Mother Graham to say nothing about the car, hoping to postpone the breaking of the news of the wrecked clutch as long as possible. But when we had finished the culinary triumph which Katie had achieved even with tardy guests, and were sipping our after-dinner coffee upon the veranda, Noel put the question I dreaded.

"Was the car all right? I'll have to start before daylight in the morning, you know."

Oven Stew
Banana Salad Apricot Cookies
Tea or Coffee

Oven stew is a very economical dish because you can use a cheaper cut of meat. And it is nourishing with vegetables, and is it good! The apricot cookies are different, and so will prove another adventure in cooking.

TODAY'S RECIPES

OVEN STEW—Two pounds beef chuck, neck or shank; two slices salt pork, flour, lard for browning, one cup tomato puree, six small onions, four medium-sized carrots, six small potatoes, salt and pepper, paprika. Cube salt pork and brown in skillet. Have beef cut into one-inch cubes. Dredge with flour and brown in hot lard. Transfer to a buttered baking dish. To the remainder of fat, add two tablespoons flour and smooth. Add tomato puree, one cup water, salt, pepper and paprika to taste. Pour over beef, cover and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until beef is nearly tender, one to one and a half hours. Then add the small whole onions, carrots and potatoes and cook until these are tender, an hour longer.

If molasses is not as dark as desired for gingerbread or cookies, add a tablespoonful of melted chocolate and spices to molasses.

If you're looking for something new and different (very different) in Christmas greetings and you're really good at baking—try this Mrs. Santa Claus stunt—A fat Santa, wrapped in a "woolly white" coat of frosted gingerbread will say a real Merry Christmas! Just trace his outline on heavy wrapping paper, then cut out the silhouette, lay it on your thinly rolled cookie mixture (be sure it is well chilled) and cut around the pattern with the point of a sharp paring knife, a little at a time. Transfer your cut-outs to the cookie sheet with a pancake turner. A "round jolly elf" will come to life in the oven.

Here's Santa at GOLDSMITH'S again . . . just as I was today . . . and I'm proud to say—all my Male-bound gifts are bought! All I have to do now is hope that they're all right. But I surely couldn't go wrong with a Goldsmith's gift . . . the salesmen are so helpful, too . . . They told me when I was on the wrong track . . . and steered me right without hurting my ego. That store certainly has easy-to-choose gifts for hard-to-please men, and they're sensibly priced, too. For luxurious rest: classic patterns and solid colors in a distinguished quality of linen and silk, high count and lustrous warp sateen prints . . . smart cotton pajamas run in price from $1.65 to $2.50. For comfort and pride in leisure: lounging pajamas in silk are $5.95 . . . Jacquard heavy crepe loungies go for $10.95, and believe me—they'll boost any husband's appearance 100%. Cotton lounging pajamas have their say in a clever style by Glover—extra-wide legged solid colored trousers with small checked top—they sell for $2.95. If you like to combine two gifts to one person, you have a real chance in robes and pajamas. Give your husband an outfit to come home to . . . relate the pajamas and robes for perfect harmony in spirit and color . . . key them to a man's personality, as I suggested last week, to give the greatest comfort and relaxation. Don't give the athletic type fellow the cocktail jacket that so obviously should belong to the suave bachelor who entertains a lot at home—give the hardy fellow who enjoys cold showers a Terry robe and blazer pajamas. Silk lined silk robes and smooth conservative pajamas should be given to the traveling man who likes nice things, but hasn't much space to pack them. A dark flannel robe with small designed pajamas to the husband who'll wear nothing but white shirts . . . plaid robes and striped broadcloth pajamas will flatter the boys away at school or college. And for those fellows who can never get warm—outing flannel p.j.'s in gay, "warm" colors. If you've shopped all the grand gifts at Goldsmith's and you're still at a loss for that most important gift . . . get him a gift certificate for a hat of his own choosing. GOLDSMITH'S have fixed them up so that they make a smart gift . . . and then you know he'll like his gift because he can choose it himself . . . and sport a new hat for the New Year.

It's in the bag! — for anyone who's been really shopping as this Santa has . . . or snooping as I have—it's in the bag department at REED'S you'll find just the right gift for that woman you want to impress, but not dazzle. There's surely no other gift quite as acceptable . . . and the handbags at Reed's are really distinctive in appearance . . . rich in material . . . fair in price! Reed's knows all the tricks the new handbags are playing this winter. They know how the new bag grows larger for Sportswear, and smaller for dress wear. Eight inches or less . . . formal; twelve inches . . . tailored, over twelve inches . . . travel and utility. They know that bags that are deeper than wide are definitely new, that bright-on-dull effects is a winter dictate, and that top handles are on the increase. They're all there at REED'S—the gems of the Paris collections—just as they were originated in Paris by the world's foremost couturiers . . . When you realize that the originals sold for up to $80.00, that their copies are so faithful in every detail, you realize what an opportunity it is to buy them at such low prices. The largest price group for gift bags is the $3 group. Every bag reveals some individual detail of workmanship or design such as quilting, stitching, contrasting shining leathers on luminous suedes! In this group I liked best a black genuine calf pouch bag with a dull yellow metal frame. There was a black kid and patent in a novel octagon combination zipper bag . . . For the woman who uses only the best and most conservative I suggest a Marcine bag in black leather, most substantial at $15. One of the more chic better bags is the "Pie-crust" style in suede or calf at $10 . . . at REED'S.

Okay, Santa young feller—we'll be there again Saturday to see you in SEARS-ROE-BUCKS Toyland . . . I haven't all my toy shopping finished, have you? I snooped in at SEARS toyland today to check up on something and while an obliging clerk made the "Sky-Bird Flyer" ($1) work for me, we collected quite a crowd . . . all adults . . . and all enthralled with the little machine, only departing after the three-point landing had been accomplished to the music of many sighs. I'm not kidding! There wasn't a youngster in the place, but evidently many parents had found the youngsters' wants on a trip to Santa there last Saturday and re-visited, as I did, to look over the gifts petitioned for. Santa tells me that most of the youngsters want toys on wheels (could it be the influence of the trailer?). Tiny tots love the wooden elephant pulling a wagon (25c). In a class a little more advanced we find two horses and a wagon selling for $1 . . . To please those whose only horse interest is the wild-west movie, SEARS have little coupes at 98c, a slick "Busy Bridge" with little cars that whiz around, back and forth across the bridge—it, too, is 98c. A fascinating Airport at $1 boasts 6 planes, a telegraph signal, and brilliant lighting for the safelanding of most precious planes. Velocipedes for active legs run in price from $1.19 to $7.95. Wagons are $1 to $8.45. Trucks, wreckers, etc., are 98c . . . and a transport with 4 cars is only $1 . . . Don't miss your visit with the Kandy Kids and Santa Claus this Saturday at SEARS-ROEBUCK store from 2 to 5 in the afternoon and from 5 to 9 at night. Take the youngsters—you'll have a grand time yourself and can do your own snooping while the children talk to Santa.

REMEMBER THAT NIGHT

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

(Copyright 1937)

SYNOPSIS

Karen Mallare, pretty, black-haired and 20, decides to give up her dress shop job in Harriston when her foster-parents die, and go to New York to go on the stage. When she tells Jerry Forbes, who came to the town to work in his uncle's bank, he begs her to change her mind and marry him. He thinks she is another stage-struck girl and she asks him if he knows her story. When she was only six months old, her mother, who had played in Harriston for a week with a group of young actors and actresses which disbanded because of lack of funds, left her in her room when she took the midnight train. Found by a maid, Karen was adopted by John and Hetty Mallare who cheerfully stinted to keep her in school and give her singing and dancing lessons. She attracted attention in the school plays and later with amateurs who gave plays in the highschool auditorium. Always she had wanted to become an actress and now she convinces Jerry that she is determined to go ahead. Manfully Jerry wishes her luck and says he will be waiting for her "if you need me." Through Cora Hillman, she gets the room of a Mrs. Graham who is going away for the summer.

CHAPTER II

They talked awhile about Cora Hillman and about Mrs. Graham's long anticipated summer in the country. Then Mrs. Graham put on her hat and her gloves and turned to Karen, extending her hand.

"I hope you like the room and I wish you luck. Cora wrote you were going on the stage." She smiled. "You're pretty enough but it takes more than that. Before I go, I'll step down the hall and say good-by to Roxanne Dell and tell her about you. She works in a night club and may be able to help you."

When Mrs. Graham had left, Karen went to the window and opened it and stood in the cool air. From Harriston to New York in seven hours! It seemed incredible! She thought, "Well, I'm here!" It had taken courage to say to Mr. Brennan, manager of the dress shop, "I'm leaving on Saturday. I'm going to New York." She had told no one except Jerry and Cora that she was coming to go on the stage.

Karen Mallare. It was not her real name. But she would take the name of Karen Mallare to glittering heights. She would! She would! And perhaps in the struggle and fight to come she would meet a man whom she would love more than she loved her own life.

In a little while the impersonal room became Karen's room, with her dresses in the closet, her books and Aunt Hetty's photograph on the desk, and her comb, brush and mirror on the dresser. And just as she realized she had not eaten since breakfast, some one tapped at the door.

Going to the door, opening it, she saw a small slim girl with yellow hair. She wore a severe black dress with a glittering pin at the neck.

"I'm Roxanne Dell," she said. "Sara Graham thought we should know each other. But she didn't tell me your name. "Her voice was husky and even a little hard. She appraised Karen coldly.

Karen opened the door wider. "Come in." She held out her hand. "I'm Karen Mallare." A friend? Somebody to talk to?

Roxanne's handclasp was firm. Long ago Karen had learned to judge people by that.

Sitting on the studio couch, Roxanne Dell smiled. And her smile had pity and cynicism in it. "Sara said you wanted to go on the stage. You picked a fine time to come! In a few weeks everything will be closed tight for the summer and the producers will be either on their yachts or in Europe. Of course, there are those summer playhouses but I don't know anything about them." She shook her yellow head and her smile was sympathetic. "It's a tough racket."

Karen thought, "She thinks I'm just another stage-struck girl. She doesn't know that I have a better reason for wanting to be an actress than most girls. My mother was an actress."

Roxanne said, "Sorry for throwing the cold water but you might as well know."

"I'm here and I'm not going back," Karen said. "I've nothing to go back to. Everything I possess is with me."

"Small town?"

Karen nodded.

Roxanne arose. Why was she bothering? Was it because four years ago somebody had bothered with her and had been kind? You needed kindness and friendship when you were alone. She knew. And Karen Mallare was no ordinary girl. She wasn't silly or hard. She was beautiful. Roxanne thought, and sensible and courageous.

"I'm going out to dinner," she said. "Would you like to come with me? There's a place a couple blocks away that isn't bad. And it's cheap. I've got to get my hat. See you downstairs in the lobby."

In a booth in a restaurant Karen heard Roxanne Dell's story.

"I didn't have far to come to New York," Roxanne Dell told Karen. "I came from New Jessey." She smiled. "Beauty contest winner. I thought that would get me by. But I was young then, seventeen, and I didn't know much. I haven't any family either except a sister who's married and lives in Atlanta."

Roxanne looked across the table at Karen. "I've done a little bit of everything but I've never been anywhere near fame or the big money. And I've been as low as my last thirty-five cents. I was in vaudeville for a year and last summer in a night club in Atlantic City. Now I'm singing on a hotel roof. It's the best job I've ever had. But I've had enough of this business. I'm going to get married."

Her voice wasn't husky or hard when she said, "I'm going to get married," Karen noticed. It had become amazingly tender.

Roxanne buttered a roll and smiled. 'I'm going to marry a man I'm so crazy about I don't know how I live or work when he isn't here. Bill. Bill McGrath. But he isn't here most of the time. He travels."

"What are you waiting for?" Karen asked. When people were in love, why did they wait?

Roxanne laughed softly. "We're waiting for Christmas! He gets his vacation then and he expects to be made sales manager of a branch in Louisville. And when I do walk out of that hotel roof, I never want to see the inside of of another night club! Christmas," she repeated, looking down, her red mouth curving. "I've known Bill two months and it's too good to be true. He came up on the roof one night and waited for me afterward. It scared me at first. I didn't think he was serious and I was afraid of being—hurt. He comes from a good family and I...well, I'm nothing. Just a female crooner." She smiled again and her eyes were happy. 'I still can't understand why he picked me!"

Karen smiled. "I know." Because beneath the hard layer, Roxanne was kind, tender, and honest.

"You're sweet," Roxanne said. "Sorry for talking so much about myself. But Bill left yesterday and I—I miss him terribly. He was going to stop in Richmond to tell his people about me.' She laughed. "You talk some. I'll bet there's a boy in that small town who hopes you'll flop and run back to him."

"Yes. But he wished me luck."

"What are you going to do first?"

"Tomorrow is Wednesday. I'm going to a matinee to see Gilda Marsh. Tomorrow night I'm going to see Brenda Bond in the Philip Ashley play. I've never seen any famous actresses. They never bring their plays to Harriston. All I know about them I've read."

"When Bill comes back," Roxanne said, "I'll get him to bring you up on the roof." Glancing at the clock, she picked up her black bag and white gloves. "I've got to fly." She picked up the check. "This is on me. No arguing, please. You'll have plenty to pay with the money you brought."

Alone, Karen walked back to her room and wrote to Jerry as she had promised. "You said that anything could happen here," she wrote. "I believe it can. I've made a friend already of a small blond girl who sings on a hotel roof. She's hard-boiled but beneath that she's loyal and very kind."

The next evening she had dinner with Roxanne again in the same small inexpensive place. She had spent the first morning seeking places of interest, asking her way from one place to another, and looking in shop windows. She had spent the afternoon in a theater, watching regal, dark-haired Gilda Marsh.

And that evening at eight-thirty Karen saw another pair of velvet curtains part and saw tall, blond, Brenda Bond appear. Forgetting herself completely, she stared, rapt. Of all the famous actresses, Brenda Bond was perhaps the most famous. Karen thought, "To be like her!" But it was over too soon. The lights went on and people began to move down the aisles slowly.

It had begun to rain and the lobby was jammed. Karen found herself wedged between a giant of a man and a buxom woman. Suddenly some one pushing to the front, hit her arm and sent her black leather bag out of her arm, sent it several feet away from her where it was trampled upon and kicked still farther away...

In panic, seeing all the money she had being kicked by several pairs of well-shod feet, she could neither move nor cry out. Her heart seemed to drop. Then, half sobbing, she cried, "Let me through, please! My bag...my money!" But the barrier of people would not move! A man glared contemptuously. A woman cried indignantly, "Really, young woman..."

Karen pushed and fought. In two more steps....

But some one bent down and picked up her bag. When he stood up, holding the bag out to her, she saw how tall, how handsome he was. Even in panic, she later thought, she noticed him. His face was as bronzed as his hair, his eyes were brown. He had a firm but amusing mouth.

"Yours?" he asked.

Later she realized she had seized it rudely.

"Yes," Karen said breathlessly. "Thank you. I..."

He smiled. "It's all right." Still smiling, he turned away.

Outside she walked hurriedly to Broadway in the rain. If she had lost her bag, if somebody else had claimed it...The thought sickened her. Tomorrow she would go to a bank.

The traffic light was red on Broadway. Feeling the rain beating on her small black hat, feeling it drip from the ends of her hair, she waited impatiently. Who was he, the man who had said in a deep, suave voice, 'It's all right?" She would never know.

Just as the light was changing, a large green car came to an abrupt stop. Karen saw him the instant he saw her.

He smiled again. "Hello. "You're getting soaked. Get in!"

Get in a car with a strange, handsome man who had picked up her bag in the lobby?

"Thank you but I can't."

"Don't talk nonsense. Get in. You're holding up traffic."

It was the maddest thing she had ever done but she slid into the luxurious car beside him and turned and looked at him.

He smiled into her eyes. "You might," Philip Ashley said, "put your hat on straight."

Suddenly fear and embarrassment left Karen. It was queer, she thought, straightening the little black hat over her dark curls, that she wasn't afraid of riding down Broadway in a luxurious green car with a strange man. And on her second night in New York.

Philip Ashley smiled again. "That's better." Then, "Let's introduce ourselves." He hesitated and said, 'I'm Philip Ashley."

Karen turned her head and raised her eyes. Philip Ashley! She said his name over and over. Philip Ashley, the playwright! Why, it was his play she had seen tonight! She liked his hesitancy in telling her his name. He had said it quietly and modestly.

"I'm Karen Mallare. Of course you noticed how scared I was when my bag got away."

"You shouldn't carry a lot of money with you."

"I never will again. But, you see, I just came to New York last night."

He glanced at her with a frown. "You mean you just came here last night—to live?"

"Yes. I came to go on the stage." She expected his sudden smile. "You're the third person who has felt sorry for me when I said that. Smiled and felt sorry. Poor girl. She thinks she can be an actress. That's what you think."

He liked her voice. Glancing at her swiftly, he found himself liking the delicately chiseled features and the absurdly long black lashes that curled upward.

"Forgive us for our cynicism," he said. "But you seem to have a great faith in yourself."

* * *

For him it had begun as an adventure when he saw how young and frightened she had looked in the theater lobby Then, on the crowded street corner with the rain teeming, he had felt sorry for her and thought it might be amusing to know her. A little working girl, he had thought, who had paid her hard-earned money to see his play, who had nearly lost her money, who had nearly been trampled upon...But it was a different story. An astonishing beautiful girl, she loved the stage as Philip loved it. There was no nonsense about her. She had not gushed or been obviously thrilled when he said, "I'm Philip Ashley." It took more than a name in lights to impress this girl.

Realizing that he was driving aimlessly, Karen gave her address.

Philip said, "Look here, do you really have to go home? I'm starved. Over several sandwiches and several cups of coffee you can be a pretty good critic." He meant that. "What do you say?"

Sandwiches and coffee with Philip Ashley...

New European War Due In Two Years, Writers Predict

STRIFE WILL INVOLVE ALL POWERS, CLAIM

22 Diplomatic Correspondents Cite Rearmament Race as Basis.

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
(INS Staff Writer)

PARIS—(INS)—Europe's next great war, which probably will be another world war, will start within the next two years; if not, it can be staved off for another ten or twelve years.

I found this to be the concensus of opinion of 22 of the best diplomatic correspondents of Europe during the Nine-Power Conference at Brussels.

There was surprising unanimity of opinion among the correspondents though they came from all points of the continent and America.

Correspondents Interviewed.

I am not at liberty to quote them individually, but I include the opinions of such well respected veteran observers as Karl H. von Wiegand, of International News Service, the dean of all war correspondents; Ward Price, star reporter for the London Daily Mail; Paul Ward, of the Baltimore Sun; Rothstein, of Tass; Ferguson, Geneva correspondent of Reuters; Cadett, of the Times; Panter, of the London Daily Telegraph, and Vernon Bartlett, London News-Chronicle.

The question put to these writers was:

"Admitting the impossibility of predicting when the next great war will start in Europe, what would you guess the approximate date to be if you were taking part in a contest with a million dollars to the winner?"

See War Impending.

Dates given by 16 of the writers fell within a period of the next two years Of these four guesses were that the big war would commence inside of 12 months. Four others of these 16 asserted their belief that while their first guess is that war will start within two years, their alternative guess would be ten or twelve years: it will happen either soon or not for a long time.

Guesses of the entire 22 fell in these categories:

War within one year—4; within two years—12; within three years—1; within five years—1; ten years—2; fifteen years—1; never—1.

Serious Situation.

The seriousness of the situation in Europe today could hardly be more forcibly illustrated than by these purely personal opinions. For none of these writers is a scaremonger. They are a hard-headed, intelligent, and rather conservative lot who have been through too many "crises" to be easily alarmed. Included in the 22 are correspondents stationed in London, Paris, Berlin, Geneva, Rome and Central Europe.

Most of them believe that the hypothetical war will grow out of a "revolution," or "civil war" in a small nation, with larger nations intervening until all the powers are involved in open warfare. Czecheckoslovakia was the most mentioned danger spot.

Rearmament Danger.

The mad rearmament race was the most cited as the surest indication of what is to come. Almost all of the correspondents believe that the dizzying accumulation of armaments is making war an inevitability.

"Some nations are spending a third of their revenue on arms and armies," one well known British writer said "Everywhere you go in Europe you see military activity. You can't tell me these armaments won't be used. I believe in the truth of that classic quotation: "How oft the sight of means to do ill deeds means ill deeds done.' "

Recalls Toledo Battle

Henry Claims It Provided Him With Greatest Grid Thrill.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles about W. F. (Pete) Henry, former All-American football star at W. & J. college, who will be the principal speaker at the annual high school football banquet to be staged by The News-Journal at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Wednesday night. Henry is now athletic director at W. & J.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

THERE are many football games which stand out in the memory of "Pete" Henry, Mansfield all-time All-American. There was the Toledo Maroon game, for instance. Henry was a member of the famous Canton Bulldogs at the time.

The Mansfield boy remembers the game distinctly because the Bulldogs defeated the Toledoans to annex the national pro title.

Another game which stands out vividly in Henry's memory is the Yale team which W. & J. whipped, 16 to 7. Deefating Yale in those days was quite a feat.

But the game of games for Henry was played against Toledo Waite in his senior year at Mansfield high school.

There was nothing unusual about the game, Mansfield winning, 31 to 7, but Henry will never forget it because it was the first victory every scored by the high school over Waite, which had administered one-sided thumpings in previous meetings.

* * *

Highlight of Season.

THIS game was the highlight of a season in which Mansfield suffered only one defeat to compile one of the greatest gridiron records in the school's history.

Henry captained this team, which scored victories over Greenwich, Galion, Mt. Vernon, Oberlin, Shelby, Bucyrus and Ashland, in addition to Waite and lost only to Wooster, 9 to 0.

While the 1914 season is regarded as one of the most successful, the previous year was one of the poorest, although Henry, playing his first full season in the backfield, played sensational ball. Mansfield's only victories in 1913 were scored over Crestline, Medina and Galion.

Although a great fullback in high school, Henry was converted into a lineman by Coach Bob Falwell in his first year at W. & J.

Henry was only 15 when he entered the Washington, Pa., school, tipped the scales at 195 and played as a freshman. He did not start the first game of his collegiate career, against Geneva, but broke into the contest in the fourth quarter as a guard.

He was a regular from that time on, but his playing position thereafter was at tackle, where he established himself as one of the greatest of all-time

Exceptionally Fast.

HENRY was exceptionally fast for his weight. "Henry combined the speed of a backfield man with his 200 pounds in weight, and was always on hand when an opponent made a fumble, or when he wanted to make a gain through the line of scrimmage," a widely-known football authority once wrote.

Henry was also an outstanding basketball player. Despite his weight (and he never weighed more than 215 in college, by the way), he was one of the fastest men ever to wear W. & J. court livery, and was regarded among the top flight cage stars of his period

Pete, who captained both the cage and grid teams at W. & J. played professional basketball with the famous Warren Trumbull Steels, Canton Sinclair Oils and Dover All-Stars

NEW RULE CHANGE EXPECTED TO HELP PACK TYGER GYM FOR FRIDAY'S GAME

ALTHOUGH the jump has not been entirely eliminated, Mansfield basketball followers are enthusiastic over the new, speedier game.

Jump ball. not many now

They voiced their approval of the game speeded up by the curbing of much of the monotonous jumping after the Tygers' opening game with Akron Kenmore at Mansfield high last week.

Judging from these sentiments, a good-sized crowd will again be on hand to see the Tygers tackle Columbus South on the home boards Friday night.

The tip-off rule has only been modified, but it has made basketball a rival of hockey as far as speed is concerned.

The center jump is still used at the beginning of each half and of each extra period; after a free throw following a technical foul, or after the last free throw following a technical foul, if more than one has been called; after a free throw following a double foul, and in a few other cases. A total of 13 jump balls were required in the Kenmore game.

The new rule has eliminated rough play incidental to the center tip, eliminated held balls following the tip, developed a more smooth, continuous type of play, equalled ball possession to a certain extent and added additional playing time.

However, it is also noticeable that the game is somewhat rougher, and demands more stamina in the player because of the continuous play. It also places a bigger burden on the defense.

Higher scoring will naturally result as more actual playing minutes have been added to the game.

The game has been changed so completely that it already has been proposed that hockey substitution rules be adopted. In hockey, substitutions are permitted at any time in any number without the formality of reporting to the officials.

WAR ADMIRAL TOPS

BALTIMORE—(U.P.)—Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral was acclaimed an overwhelming ruler of the three-year-old division and a slightly better thoroughbred than Seabiscuit in the 1937 American turf and sports writers' poll, completed by the Turf and Sport Digest today.

White to Refuse Offer From Cleveland Rams.

BOULDER, Col. — (U.P.)—Byron (Whizzer) White, Colorado university's All-America quarterback, said today that he had no intention of playing professional football next year with the "Cleveland Rams or any other team."

The Phi Beta Kappa athlete said he had told a friend several days ago that he would not consider any professional offer. He was approached on behalf of the Cleveland Rams of the National pro league. Cleveland has first choice in the league's draft and has said it will choose White regardless of his present plans. White plans to study law next year either at Oxford or some university in the United States.

The league games will be played on Monday nights instead of Tuesdays, starting next week.

The opening games will pit the Ira D. Ling Canzols against the Elks club at 7:30 p. m., and the Yuncker Sports against Westinghouse at 8:30.

MEPHISTO, EX-CHAMP IS SIGNED

Mansfield wrestling fans who in the past few years have seen all the best in the world of wrestling will get their second glimpse of one of the most famed of wrestling's satellites Monday night when the Great Mephisto comes to the Armory.

Mephisto has been here just once previously, and to say that he was a sensation was putting it wildly. However, so intensive is his schedule about the country that he could not be secured for another engagement here.

He has been signed to appear in the world's championship light-heavyweight tournament, which is now being staged here, and will oppose George Becker, talented young New Yorker, in a two out of three falls match with an hour and a half time limit Monday.

Mephisto is the ace of them all when it comes to ring color and personality. He cloaks himself in an aura of mystery.

Twice in his career has he been world's champion and only recently he lost the world's lightheavyweight championship to the man who now holds it, Billy Weidner of San Francisco.

Matchmaker Nolan is now endeavoring to line up another bang-up match to co-feature next Monday night's card.

Sox Put Up Cash For Coast Rookie

Boston Obtains Outfielder Ted Williams From San Diego for Sum Believed to Exceed $35,000 In Final Deal of Meeting.

By EARL HILLIGAN

CHICAGO—(AP)—If anyone insisted on awarding a "money spending" blue ribbon for activity during the 1937 major leagues' baseball meetings, it would have to be pinned on the gilt-edged Boston Red Sox.

The Red Sox, or rather Owner Tom Yawkey, know how to spend the shekels much faster than their deals during one of the dullest "ivory markets" in recent seasons would indicate. But what they accomplished looked big in contrast with the inactivity of a majority of other clubs.

Add Two Players.

They obtained young Ted Williams, an outfield star, from San Diego for two players and cash. The New York Yankees offered $35,000 for Williams, so it can be assumed that Yawkey "laid it on the line" for the west coast youth. The Red Sox let Oscar Melillo go to the Browns as a coach and participated in one of the three strictly all-major deals of both the minor and major assemblies, sending Outfielder Buster Mills, Infielder Ralph (Red) Kress and Pitcher Buck Newsom to the St. Louis Browns for Outfielder Joe Vosmik.

With not a single big deal being made by either league at the major sessions, the fans will have to go back to the minor league gathering at Milwaukee for most of their "hot stove" topics this winter. Detroit and Chicago pulled the biggest transaction, with Chicago sending Pitcher Vern Kennedy, Outfielder Dixie Walker, and Infielder Tony Piet to Detroit for Outfielder Gerald Walker, Infielder Marvin Owen and Catcher Mike Tresh.

The majors failed to see eye to eye as to the type of ball to be used and in yesterday's final and joint meeting, refused to reopen discussions. The American league will continue to use the same ball as it has for many years, the fast or "rabbit" spheroid. The Nationals will go back to the slower and heavier ball favored by pitchers.

The National circuit re-elected Ford Frick president for three years, and renewed an agreement permitting Cincinnati to play seven night games next season. The junior circuit, in which the term of President William Harridge still has a year to run, turned down Cleveland's application for night ball.

JOE CARR MAY RETIRE

Illness May Force Pro League Head to Relinquish Reins.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Joe Carr, Columbus, president of the National football league, may be forced by illness to relinquish the presidency of the organization he founded 17 years ago.

EVEN THE PRICE TAGS SAY "Better buy Buick!"

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

LOOK the whole length of Motor Car Row, and you won't find a car anywhere that offers you what this stunning new Buick does.

No other car, for instance, has its DYNAFLASH engine, squeezing more useful power out of every drop of gasoline you burn.

No other car has TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING — or can match the smoothness-with-safety this new coil-spring rear suspension provides.

No other car combines such features as Silent Zone Body Mounting, Valve-in-Head efficiency, Torque-Tube Drive, Tiptoe Hydraulic Brakes, Knee-Action comfort and safety—in a package so big and handsome.

All that plainly says "Better buy Buick!" But just by way of completing the story, we'd like to point out this:

The Buick SPECIAL is the lowest-priced straight-eight of its size on the market. At least two sixes carry higher list prices, and others are priced so close that a dollar or two a week covers the difference.

Take the stunning four-door sedan shown here. It's sixteen and a half feet long, has 107 horsepower under its hood, and it's yours complete with standard equipment for only $1022, delivered at Flint, Michigan.

We don't think you'll find its match anywhere on Motor Car Row. We're sure you won't for the money!

This BUICK SPECIAL 5-passenger, 4-door streamline sport sedan, complete with standard equipment, $1022 delivered at Flint, Mich.

Other models: Buick SPECIAL business coupe, $943; CENTURY 4-door touring sedan, $1297. Special equipment, transportation and local taxes, if any, extra on all models.

RAILS CONTINUE DRIVE AS MANY LEADERS SLUMP

Dealings Quiet, Prices Mixed Near Second Hour; Bonds Improved.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Rails continued to edge forward in today's stock market, but many leaders lacked motive power on the upside. Dealings were quiet and prices well mixed near the second hour.

Brokers noted a little short covering and modest investment buying based on the belief the slide in business may be stemmed soon. Bonds improved but commodities were mixed.

Holders of utilities considered unofficial estimates that fourth quarter net income of the power and light companies would likely make the poorest showing of the year. Principally responsible for a possible decline of between 5 and 10 per cent in aggregate profits, it was said, was the general curtailment of industrial activity.

Cheering was the prediction of Secretary of Commerce Roper that the country for 1937 would enjoy an export trade balance of around $100,000,000. Total value of both exports and imports was placed at about 31 per cent higher than last year.

12 Children Among Victims In Fires In Tennessee and Illinois.

low me," Connataser, a newspaper vendor, said. "But she couldn't get to the window with the other children, I suppose."

6 DEAD IN ILLINOIS

OREGON, Ill.—(U.P.)—Firemen searched today for the bodies of Mrs. Glenn Large, 27, and her five children, who were burned to death by a fire which destroyed their farm home.

Her husband, 31, was burned seriously on the arms and face. He suffered other injuries when he fell 15 feet to the ground from a porch roof d ring an attempt to save his family.

He told firemen that he, his wife and the children were asleep on the second floor when the fire broke out. They were awakened by the crackling flames. The fire enveloped the whole first floor and cut off escape down a stairway, he said.

"I got out on the roof and told my wife to lead the children to the window. But I slipped on ice and fell off."

He said he ran to a neighbor's when he was unsuccessful in climbing back to the roof.

The children were Louis, 8; Darlene, 7; John, 5; Jack, 3; and Donna Mae, 2.

Cause of the fire was not known.

50 PATIENTS RESCUED

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Fifty patients at the Ambler Hill sanitarium here were rescued today when fire broke out in the large frame structure.

Most of the rescued patients were aged convalescents, wards of the county welfare system. Mrs. Eva Fahey, proprietor of the sanitarium, said no one was injured.

The patients were huddled in a large unheated barn near the sanitarium while firemen fought the blaze.

Employes of the Baldwin reservoir and a party of Western Reserve university students making a tour of the reservoir aided in the rescue work.

HOLLYWOOD TO AID YULE SHOW

'Gil' Baird Flies Home to Take Over Direction of "Passing Parade of 1937."

Passing Show of 1937." Baird and R. O. Richards will stage the first and third acts of the charity show this year, with Baird as master of ceremonies.

The Westinghouse showman left Los Angeles Tuesday at 10:30 p. m. and arrived in Cleveland at 7:15 p. m., which would be 4:15 Los Angeles time, making the trip in 17 hours and 45 minutes.

Tonight he will direct his first rehearsal of the Christmas charity show, and today was "all hepped up" over a new idea for a finale which he picked up at the Selznick studio in Hollywood.

Baird has staged company shows all over the United States, and served as master of ceremonies at most of them. He is noted for his ability at impromptu wise-cracking, and to keep a show moving along at a lively pace.

He's the M. C., Too.

In addition to directing the revue acts, the first and third acts of he show, Baird will also serve as maser of ceremonies on the night of Dec. 18—and as a master of ceremonies, he is right up there. He's been an M .C. on innumerable occasions, and his impromptu wise-cracking has made him a rather famous fellow. And watch how he keeps a show moving.

Baird will be assisted in directing the show by R. O. Richards, also from Westinghouse. Working with them is Marguerite Speas, head of the Speas school of dancing, who will present her dancing "Speasettes."

The second act of the Passing Parade, the "March of Time," a take-off on events in Mansfield, and which is being directed by Charles Newcomb and Jane Williams, is being rehearsed separately and the entire show of three acts will set a new mark in theater productions — it will not be put together in its entirety until the night of the performance, Dec. 18, at the Ohio theater. Even the dress rehearsals will be held at different times for the three acts.

The reservation of seats opens a week from today at the Ohio theater lobby box office at noon.

POLAR BEARS COLD!

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—When the temperature dipped to around 10 degrees here, the polar bears at the Cincinnati zoo got so cold that they shivered and huddled together to keep warm, Keeper Dave Smith reported.

The Kodiak and black bears apparently were unaffected by the cold, Smith said. The polar bears will be taken inside at night if they continue to show discomfort.

MAIL EARLY AND GIVE POSTMEN YULE TREAT, HOMBERGER URGES

A plea came from the postoffice today—like pleas have come at this time of the year in the past and will come in the future—to mail early.

The 1937 request was made by Postmaster Herman E Homberger as he surveyed the mail situation and then looked at the calendar. He was sure there would be a jam before Christmas, so he wanted to help avert it, if he could.

Then too, he wanted to give the postal employes a break, for Christmas is supposed to be a holiday for them, also. Handling a volume of mail that probably will be increased better than 200 per cent in the next two weeks will be no picnic.

The special Christmas postal instructions issued today by Homberger said that "all parcels should be securely packed and wrapped." Use of strong paper and heavy twine was advised.

Articles easily damaged in transit should be marked "fragile" and perishable matter often needs special delivery stamps to get it to its destination safely.

It's all right to be original, Postmaster Homberger believes, but greeting cards shouldn't be so different that the addresses on them can't be read or they won't feed through the post-marking machines.

"Do not mail cards in red, green, or other dark-colored envelopes, or in very small envelopes," Homberger urged. "The reasons are that addresses are different to read on dark-colored paper and small, odd-sized envelopes are easily lost and difficult to postmark."

Cigars, popular gifts for men, will be accepted at the postoffice only if they are carefully wrapped in corrugated pasteboard or similar material. No parcel more than 100 inches in length and girth or weighing more than 70 pounds will be accepted for mailing.

There will be no delivery on Christmas day except of articles and letters bearing special delivery stamps.

Seriously Hurt at Ashland.

Also attributed to slippery streets was an accident at Ashland late yesterday in which Mrs. Sadie Piat, 65, suffered a fractured skull and leg. She was struck by a car driven by Clarence Cavanaugh of Ashland as she attempted to cross the street near her home. Her condition was reported as critical today.

Cavanaugh told police he was unable to stop his car on the slippery pavement in time to avoid hiting Mrs. Piat. He was not held.

Roads and streets in every part of the state were dangerous for travel today, but reports said all main routes were open. In Mansfield the streets department continued its work of clearing snow and ice from main thoroughfares. The county maintenance department operated snow plows over the heavily-traveled routes as strong winds drifted snow across the roads.

Snowfall was reported heaviest in the northeast corner of the state where horses pulled snow plows through drifts in many rural sections.

Cold Threatens Crops.

The cold gripped the central south and imperiled the sugar cane crops in central Louisiana, United Press dispatches said. Smudge pots were kept burning throughout the southeast by growers who faced possible loss of thousands of dollars in farm truck products and citrus crops.

A 45-mile an hour gale swept central Michigan and piled snow into high drifts. The state highway department issued an emergency call for additional snow plows and men.

The storm centered at Kalmazoo where 30 inches of snow was reported by the weather bureau. Temperatures in the state ranged from zero to nine above at Detroit.

Pennsylvania reported 23 deaths since Monday. Seventeen were attributed to automobile accidents on slippery pavements; three died from exposure, and three children were killed in the western part of the state in coasting accidents.

Western Pennsylvania had as much as 18 inches of snow in some sections, reports said. Roads were blocked in New York state by the heavy snow and schools were closed at Niagara Falls because of the cold and huge drifts.

relics and spots of beauty," it promised.

Japanese tanks were reported to have entered the southeast gate of Nanking today, and the Japanese army spokesman predicted capture of the city within 24 hours.

The spokesman declared Chinese still were resisting and added that there would be a major battle if the resistance continued. He declined to state whether Japanese expected the defenders to fight to the last or surrender in order to escape a heavy toll of life and property.

Domei (Japanese) news agency observers in airplanes saw the tanks entering the southeast city gate. Domei also said Japanese had entered Wuhu, Yangtze river port 60 miles upstream from Nanking.

Chinese artillery firing from strongly fortified Purple Mountain which overlooks Nanking kept Japanese from a frontal attack on the eastern wall of the city where latest reports were that 14 Americans remained.

Shanghai itself heard the boom of anti-aircraft guns after days of quiet. The Japanese flagship Idzumo fired 25 shells into overcast skies. Japanese and foreign reports were that two Chinese planes had flown over the ship.

Japanese said their army and navy airforces made heavy attacks on Nanking and surrounding territory throughout the day to back up Japanese armies encircling the city. Army fliers were said to have raided Nanchang, where Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was reported in residence.

Wuhu had been the object of Japanese attacks for 24 hours. Many fires were reported raging there.

in travelers checks. The hunt was confused later by demands for her ransom but police never succeeded in finding the sender of these ransom demands.

It was the discovery of a rental agent's body in a cellar of the villa that led investigators into the De Koven case.

That gruesome find put authorities on the trail of a German who had made an appointment with the rental agent, Raymond Lesobre, to inspect the vacant villa which the German had rented.

It was a rendezvous with violent death for the rental agent.

Detectives finally located the German, Eugene Weidmann, living in St. Cloud. Three detectives were dispatched yesterday afternoon to arrest him.

He put up a struggle. There was a short pistol duel in which two of the officers were wounded. They overpowered Weidmann, however, and took him to headquarters for questioning in connection with the discovery of the rental agent's body.

The prisoner confessed last evening, the investigators said, to killing the real estate man.

"I shot him because I needed money," Weidmann was quoted.

That did not close the interrogation of the prisoner. For 18 hours the officers kept him under a cross-fire of questions in connection with other crimes.

After a night of questioning at the Versailles police headquarters, police asked the prisoner:

"Who else have you killed?"

Then, the investigators said, Weidmann wrote the name of Jean De Koven on a scrap of paper.

a meeting with county officials to work out a plan. But so far as could be learned today, no such meeting had been arranged. At least, neither county commissioners, the auditor's office, nor Moore knew anything of such a meeting. Mayor Earl A. McFarland didn't either.

Also in the picture, though not nearly so serious a matter, is the fact that the county also owes the city money—about $1,900 in water bills. And that debt can't be applied against the city's tax debt, because water bills have to be paid directly to the water department, and not to the general fund.

RAILS CONTINUE DRIVE AS MANY LEADERS SLUMP

Dealings Quiet, Prices Mixed Near Second Hour; Bonds Improved.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Rails continued to edge forward in today's stock market, but many leaders lacked motive power on the upside. Dealings were quiet and prices well mixed near the second hour.

Brokers noted a little short covering and modest investment buying based on the belief the slide in business may be stemmed soon. Bonds improved but commodities were mixed.

Holders of utilities considered unofficial estimates that fourth quarter net income of the power and light companies would likely make the poorest showing of the year. Principally responsible for a possible decline of between 5 and 10 per cent in aggregate profits, it was said, was the general curtailment of industrial activity.

Cheering was the prediction of Secretary of Commerce Roper that the country for 1937 would enjoy an export trade balance of around $100,000,000. Total value of both exports and imports was placed at about 31 per cent higher than last year.

low me," Connatser, a newspaper vendor, said. "But she couldn't get to the window with the other children, I suppose."

6 DEAD IN ILLINOIS

OREGON, Ill.—(U.P.)—Firemen searched today for the bodies of Mrs. Glenn Large, 27, and her five children, who were burned to death by a fire which destroyed their farm home.

Her husband, 31, was burned seriously on the arms and face. He suffered other injuries when he fell 15 feet to the ground from a porch roof d ring an attempt to save his family.

He told firemen that he, his wife and the children were asleep on the second floor when the fire broke out. They were awakened by the crackling flames. The fire enveloped the whole first floor and cut off escape down a stairway, he said.

"I got out on the roof and told my wife to lead the children to the window. But I slipped on ice and fell off."

He said he [illegible] a neighbor's when he was unsuccessful in climbing back to the roof.

The children were Louis, 8; Darlene, 7; John, 5; Jack, 3; and Donna Mae, 2.

Cause of the fire was not known.

50 PATIENTS RESCUED

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Fifty patients at the Ambler Hill sanitarium here were rescued today when fire broke out in the large frame structure.

Most of the rescued patients were aged convalescents, wards of the county welfare system. Mrs. Eva Fahey, proprietor of the sanitarium, said no one was injured.

The patients were huddled in a large unheated barn near the sanitarium while firemen fought the blaze.

Employes of the Baldwin reservoir and a party of Western Reserve university students making a tour of the reservoir aided in the rescue work.

HOLLYWOOD TO AID YULE SHOW

'Gil' Baird Flies Home to Take Over Direction of "Passing Parade of 1937."

Passing Show of 1937." Baird and R. O. Richards will stage the first and third acts of the charity show this year, with Baird as master of ceremonies.

The Westinghouse showman left Los Angeles Tuesday at 10:30 p. m. and arrived in Cleveland at 7:15 p. m., which would be 4:15 Los Angeles time, making the trip in 17 hours and 45 minutes.

Tonight he will direct his first rehearsal of the Christmas charity show, and today was "all hepped up" over a new idea for a finale which he picked up at the Selznick studio in Hollywood.

Baird has staged company shows all over the United States, and served as master of ceremonies at most of them. He is noted for his ability at impromptu wise-cracking, and to keep a show moving along at a lively pace.

He's the M. C., Too.

In addition to directing the revue acts, the first and third acts of he show, Baird will also serve as maser of ceremonies on the night of Dec. 18—and as a master of ceremonies, he is right up there. He's been an M .C. on innumerable occasions, and his impromptu wise-cracking has made him a rather famous fellow. And watch how he keeps a show moving.

Baird will be assisted in directing the show by R. O. Richards, also from Westinghouse. Working with them is Marguerite Speas, head of the Speas school of dancing, who will present her dancing "Speasettes."

The second act of the Passing Parade, the "March of Time,"-a take-off on events in Mansfield, and which is being directed by Charles Newcomb and Jane Williams, is being rehearsed separately and the entire show of three acts will set a new mark in theater productions—it will not be put together in its entirety until the night of the performance, Dec. 18, at the Ohio theater. Even the dress rehearsals will be held at different times for the three acts.

The reservation of seats opens a week from today at the Ohio theater lobby box office at noon.

POLAR BEARS COLD!

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—When the temperature dipped to around 10 degrees here, the polar bears at the Cincinnati zoo got so cold that they shivered and huddled together to keep warm, Keeper Dave Smith reported.

The Kodiak and black bears apparently were unaffected by the cold, Smith said. The polar bears will be taken inside at night if they continue to show discomfort

MAIL EARLY AND GIVE POSTMEN YULE TREAT, HOMBERGER URGES

A plea came from the postoffice today—like pleas have come at this time of the year in the past, and will come in the future—to mail early

The 1937 request was made by Postmaster Herman E. Homberger as he surveyed the mail situation and then looked at the calendar He was sure there would be a jam before Christmas, so he wanted to help avert it, if he could.

Then too, he wanted to give the postal employes a break, for Christmas is supposed to be a holiday for them, also Handling a volume of mail that probably will be increased better than 200 per cent in the next two weeks will be no picnic.

The special Christmas postal instructions issued today by Homberger said that "all parcels should be securely packed and wrapped." Use of strong paper and heavy twine was advised.

Articles easily damaged in transit should be marked "fragile" and perishable matter often needs special delivery stamps to get it to its destination safely.

It's all right to be original, Postmaster Homberger believes, but greeting cards shouldn't be so different that the addresses on them can't be read or they won't feed through the post-marking machines.

"Do not mail cards in red, green, or other dark-colored envelopes, or in very small envelopes," Homberger urged. "The reasons are that addresses are different to read on dark-colored paper and small, odd-sized envelopes are easily lost and difficult to postmark."

Cigars, popular gifts for men, will be accepted at the postoffice only if they are carefully wrapped in corrugated pasteboard or similar material. No parcel more than 100 inches in length and girth or weighing more than 70 pounds will be accepted for mailing.

There will be no delivery on Christmas day except of articles and letters bearing special delivery stamps.

Seriously Hurt at Ashland.

Also attributed to slippery streets was an accident at Ashland late yesterday in which Mrs. Sadie Piat, 65, suffered a fractured skull and leg. She was struck by a car driven by Clarence Cavanaugh of Ashland as she attempted to cross the street near her home. Her condition was reported as critical today.

Cavanaugh told police he was unable to stop his car on the slippery pavement in time to avoid hiting Mrs. Piat. He was not held.

Roads and streets in every part of the state were dangerous for travel today, but reports said all main routes were open. In Mansfield the streets department continued its work of clearing snow and ice from main thoroughfares. The county maintenance department operated snow plows over the heavily traveled routes as strong winds drifted snow across the roads.

Snowfall was reported heaviest in the northeast corner of the state where horses pulled snow plows through drifts in many rural sections.

Cold Threatens Crops.

The cold gripped the central south and imperiled the sugar cane crops in central Louisiana, United Press dispatches said. Smudge pots were kept burning throughout the southeast by growers who faced possible loss of thousands of dollars in farm truck products and citrus crops.

A 45-mile an hour gale swept central Michigan and piled snow into high drifts. The state highway department issued an emergency call for additional snow plows and men.

The storm centered at Kalmazoo where 30 inches of snow was reported by the weather bureau. Temperatures in the state ranged from zero to nine above at Detroit.

Pennsylvania reported 23 deaths since Monday. Seventeen were attributed to automobile accidents on slippery pavements; three died from exposure; and three children were killed in the western part of the state in coasting accidents.

Western Pennsylvania had as much as 18 inches of snow in some sections, reports said. Roads were blocked in New York state by the heavy snow and schools were closed at Niagara Falls because of the cold and huge drifts.

relics and spots of beauty," it promised.

Japanese tanks were reported to have entered the southeast gate of Nanking today, and the Japanese army spokesman predicted capture of the city within 24 hours.

The spokesman declared Chinese still were resisting and added that there would be a major battle if the resistance continued. He declined to state whether Japanese expected the defenders to fight to the last or surrender in order to escape a heavy toll of life and property.

Domei (Japanese) news agency observers in airplanes saw the tanks entering the southeast city gate. Domei also said Japanese had entered Wuhu, Yangtze river port 60 miles upstream from Nanking.

Chinese artillery firing from strongly fortified Purple Mountain which overlooks Nanking kept Japanese from a frontal attack on the eastern wall of the city where latest reports were that 14 Americans remained.

Shanghai itself heard the boom of anti-aircraft guns after days of quiet. The Japanese flagship Idzumo fired 25 shells into overcast skies. Japanese and foreign reports were that two Chinese planes had flown over the ship.

Japanese said their army and navy airforces made heavy attacks on Nanking and surrounding territory throughout the day to back up Japanese armies encircling the city. Army fliers were said to have raided Nanchang, where Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was reported in residence.

Wuhu had been the object of Japanese attacks for 24 hours. Many fires were reported raging there.

in travelers checks. The hunt was confused later by demands for her ransom but police never succeeded in finding the sender of these ransom demands.

It was the discovery of a rental agent's body in a cellar of the villa that led investigators into the De Koven case.

That gruesome find put authorities on the trail of a German who had made an appointment with the rental agent, Raymond Lesobre, to inspect the vacant villa which the German had rented.

It was a rendezvous with violent death for the rental agent.

Detectives finally located the German, Eugene Weidmann, living in St. Cloud. Three detectives were dispatched yesterday afternoon to arrest him.

He put up a struggle. There was a short pistol duel in which two of the officers were wounded. They overpowered Weidmann, however, and took him to headquarters for questioning in connection with the discovery of the rental agent's body.

The prisoner confessed last evening, the investigators said, to killing the real estate man.

"I shot him because I needed money," Weidmann was quoted.

That did not close the interrogation of the prisoner. For 18 hours the officers kept him under a cross-fire of questions in connection with other crimes.

After a night of questioning at the Versailles police headquarters, police asked the prisoner:

"Who else have you killed?"

Then, the investigators said, Weidmann wrote the name of Jean De Koven on a scrap of paper.

a meeting with county officials to work out a plan. But so far as could be learned today, no such meeting had been arranged. At least, neither county commissioners, the auditor's office, nor Moore knew anything of such a meeting. Mayor Earl A. McFarland didn't either.

Also in the picture, though not nearly so serious a matter, is the fact that the county also owes the city money—about $1,900 in water bills. And that debt can't be applied against the city's tax debt, because water bills have to be paid directly to the water department, and not to the general fund.
